TIGER ON TOP.

Van Wyck Will Be Mayor of New York.

Tracy Predicts His Election by a Large Majority.

Tracy Still Insists That Tracy Will Get There.

Tammany Has Picked Up Courage Since the Death of Henry George and Seems to Have a Clench on the Election.

[BY THE TIMES SPECIAL WIRE.] NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(Special Dispatch.) After a careful summary of the situation tonight, it appears that the Tammany candidate for Mayor, Robert Van Wyck, will be elected by a majority of not less than 50,000 plurality.

“Dick” Croker, the boss of Tammany Hall, announces at midnight that Van Wyck will be Mayor of Greater New York by a plurality of 60,000.

Senator Platt, who has engineered Gen. Tracy's campaign, is hopeful of success, but the impression prevails that his hopes are not well-founded.

The death of Henry George has greatly complicated matters, and a big part of the vote he would have received will undoubtedly go to the Tammany candidate.

Low, the reformer and nondescript, will poll a much lighter vote than is generally believed.

Van Wyck first, Tracy second, Low third, George fourth. This is the way the situation was summed up tonight, as the campaign was brought practically to a close.

PHOCION HOWARD.

GEORGE VOTES SCARCER.

They Will Cut Little Figure on Election Day.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The practical politicians are all agreed that the huge Democracy of Thomas Jefferson, built up by Henry George in three weeks, will not be a principal factor in next Tuesday's election. It has been generally estimated that it would have polled more than 100,000 votes if it had survived the campaign, but these votes are probably now transferable.

The Tammany leaders have regained their confidence that was shaken by George's extraordinary canvass during the past week. They have called in their anti-George literature, silenced their anti-George speakers, are mourning publicly for Mr. George as a good man and a Democrat, and hope, with good reason, to get the greater part of his vote.

Low will probably get a smaller share, a few thousand votes will probably stick to young George, and as the Tracy leaders said all along, there are no Republicans in the George ranks, they probably expect nothing.

WILL NOT SPEAK.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Secretary Miller of the Henry George Democracy, tonight said that Henry George will not take his father's place on the stump. He offered to do whatever the campaign committee thought best, but after a consultation the committee decided to answer for the new candidate to make any speeches.

CROKER SUE FOR LABEL. NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Col. George Waring, Jr., the Commissioner of Street Cleaning, has brought suit for $100,000 damages. The summons was served on Mr. Croker today. Included with Mr. Croker as defendants are Blakely Hall and Edward S. Haines. Mr. Hall is the editor and Mr. Haines the publisher of the Morning Telegraph. The suit is the reproduction of the statement issued by Tammany Hall reflecting on Col. Waring's administration of the street-cleaning department.

TRIBUTES TO THE DEAD. Dr. Metcalf Likens George to Washington and Lincoln.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Rev. Dr. McGlynn pays this tribute to the late Henry George:

“I do not think that it is merely the enthusiastic language of a devoted friend to say that the providence of God raised up a Washington to be the father of his country, and endowed him with such gifts and gave him such experiences that he might well believe that, without them, the republic would not have been achieved; as in a similar crisis the rare gifts and character of a Lincoln were so plainly provided, in that none but men with little faith in God could doubt that he had been prepared and sent upon a mission. The Father in heaven; so Henry George, by his extraordinary gifts and career, showed that he was marked out by the providence of God to be the foremost leader and teacher in the work of emancipation of the masses of men everywhere from an industrial slavery more often worse and more glaring than mere chattel slavery, and to hasten the coming and to perpetuate the duration not merely of a larger and more perfect union of States, but of the commonwealth of the United States and of the world.

“Well shall it be for us Americans if we shall not be so reluctant to our opportunities, and if the masses of American people shall accept the teachings of Henry George.”

BORUCKE COCKRAN'S TRIBUTE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Fully 1500 people gathered in the Grand Central Palace last night to hear W. Bourke Cockran speak in support of the Republican candidate. Mr. Cockran was applauded when he made his appearance on the platform inside the large hall.

DANGER AHEAD.

GEORGE'S FUNERAL.

Workmen Will Make a Great Demonstration—The Programme.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Hamlin Garland, chairman of the Funeral Committee, said today that the body of Henry George will be taken to the Grand Central Palace some time this evening. The service is to be non-sectarian. The body will probably be placed on a bier, so that all who wish may look upon the face of the deceased during or after the services. Afterward there will be a procession of laboring men down Broadway and over the bridge to Brooklyn. The body will remain at the home of the deceased at Port Hamilton until Monday, when it will be interred in Greenwood Cemetery.

FIFTY THOUSAND MARCHERS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Fifty thousand workmen, members of unions, will participate in the march of honor Sunday night. The Central Labor Union of this city, with its sixty affiliated bodies, District Assemblies 49 and 253, Knights of Labor, 30,000 strong, and D. A. B. K. of L. (railroad employees) and the Brooklyn Central Labor Union, 20,000 strong, will make up that tremendous body.

The eulogists at the funeral services will be Rev. Dr. McGlynn, Rev. Dr. Heber Newton, Rev. Dr. Rainford, Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott and Bishop

Henry C. Potter. Dr. Heber Newton will be the officiating clergyman in the services. He was Mr. George's pastor. The planter cast of the dead single-taxers' face, made last night under the direction of Richard George, has been entrusted to Sculptor John A. Waltheussen, who will make a bust of Mr. George.

SERVICES IN SAN FRANCISCO.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Memorial services for Henry George will be held here tomorrow at noon, the hour being the same as that at which the New York services will take place, with an allowance for the difference in time. The services will be under the auspices of the Single-Tax Society, and addresses will be delivered by prominent politicians and early-day friends of Henry George.

CAMPAIGN CLOUD.

Political Battles in Ohio and Other States Ended.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CINCINNATI, Oct. 30.—The campaign in Ohio closed tonight with meetings in every county. Some speakers addressed three or four meetings today. Special trains were used for Bryan, Hanna, Foraker and the candidates for Governor, so that they could cover numerous points in the home stretch. The Republican party had a

THEIR GUEST.

Cincinnatians Entertain the President.

The Commercial Club Tenders Him a Banquet.

Many Distinguished Men at the Festal Board.

The President Makes an Address in Which He Advocates Reciprocity in Trade and Sound Money. Reception to Mrs. McKinley.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CINCINNATI, Oct. 30.—President McKinley has had continuous ovations here today from the time of his arrival at 10:50 a.m. until after midnight, when the banquet of the Commercial Club was over. His recent ovations at Xenia and all along the Little Miami Valley before reaching the city. When the Presidential party left the train at Torrence Roads, there was a multitude of suburbanites there to greet him, and the ovations continued en route to Walnut Hills. Then followed ovations en route into the city at noon, the public receptions by the Chamber of Commerce and the Young Men's Business Club in the afternoon.

From these “downtown” receptions the Presidential party was driven back to the Kirshen mansion, to attend late in the afternoon the musicale given by Mrs. Schmidlap in honor of Mrs. McKinley.

The guests included the most prominent ladies in Cincinnati, notably Mrs. Fleischmann, wife of Hon. Charles Fleischmann, State Senator; Mrs. Perry S. Heath, Mrs. Judson Harmon, wife of the retiring Attorney-General; Mrs. Charles P. Taft, wife of Congressman Taft; Mrs. J. T. Carey and Mrs. Calvin E. Brice, wife of Senator Brice. Mrs. Schmidlap was assisted by her two sisters, Mrs. Dr. Koehler and Mrs. Koehler.

The purpose of the Presidential visit was accomplished when tonight the promise given a year ago was fulfilled by the President becoming the guest of the Cincinnati Commercial Club at their annual dinner. The function was exclusive, though the thirty-eight members of the club present were reinforced by fifty-two guests, including ex-Attorney-General Harmon, Col. Myron T. Herrick, Mayor Tafel, M. E. Ingalls, J. Addison Porter, L. C. Weir, president of the Adams Express Company, Judge W. H. Taft of the United States Court, and Col. M. H. Cochran of the Sixth Infantry, U.S.A. The menu and toast list were handsomely engraved on heavy cards with white blue satin ribbons. At the plate of each guest was a triangular box containing miniature silver loving cups, gold-lined and bearing on the inside the names of the members of the club, the date and the legend, “President McKinley, guest of honor.”

The toast list began with an address by the president of the club, Lucien Wilson. Following this was the toast “Our Guest.”

They love their land because it is their own, and seem to give sight other reason why. Would shake hands with a king upon a throne, And think it kindness to his majesty.

President McKinley responded. Following this was “The Commercial Club, Its Past and Future,” responded to by M. E. Ingalls; “The Executive and the Legislature,” responded to by Hon. Judson Harmon; “Party Government, the Nation's Safety,” responded to by Hon. John H. Warring; “The Legislature and Judiciary,” response by Hon. W. H. Taft.

After greeting the members of the Commercial Club, and referring pleasantly to the people of Cincinnati, the President said, in part:

“There is much that is gratifying to me in this assembly, because it is represented by men of all parties and creeds, united in a common aim, and a most worthy one—that of promoting good government and disseminating those ideas which will insure the honor and prosperity of the country. We gain by intelligent discussion of public questions carried on in an organized and proper way, and from a standpoint of partisanship out of good citizenship.”

“What will make the nation strongest and best, what will make its citizenship the most useful and effective in government?”

“Commerce is a teacher and a pacifier. It gives mankind knowledge of one another. It is the great promoter of reciprocity of friendship. Good trade makes good will. The heart as well as the mind contributes directly to the progress of the world, and when we secure just and fair commercial relations with other nations, we are sure to have friendly political relations with them.”

“Alating none of our interest in the home market, let us move steadily out to new fields and increase the demand for our products in the foreign market. It should be our settled purpose to open trade wherever we can, making our ships and our commerce messengers of peace and unity.”

“The consular service of the government should be closely scrutinized and carefully offered and we should have in every commercial port of the world a sensible and practical American, who while discharging his other duties with honor to the government, will not neglect in every proper way to promote American exchanges and encourage reciprocal trade.”

“Finally, if we are entering upon an era of prosperity such as has never before, and all fervently hope, remembering our recent panic and financial experience, we should strengthen the weak places in our financial system, and remove it forever from ambiguity and doubt.”

The President's address was listened to with the closest attention, and was punctuated now and then with applause, but at the close the ovations were spontaneous and long-continued.

Yellow Fever Bulletin.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 30.—With somewhat cooler weather today the yellow fever situation is a little more favorable, but many deaths have been reported. There were nine deaths, however. MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 30.—Nine new cases, two deaths. MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 30.—A slight frost fell here last night, but there were few new cases of yellow fever today, and one death.

TROUBLE IN AFRICA.

BAD BEHAVIOR BY THE BRITISH NIGER COMPANY.

France Calls England to Account and Sends Troops to Defend Her Territory.

ENGLAND WILL DO LIKEWISE.

THE NIGER QUESTION FAR FROM BEING SETTLED.

Drastic Character of the British Employers' Liability Bill—The Dead Duchess—London Gossip.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

LONDON, Oct. 30.—[By Atlantic Cable, Copyrighted, 1897, by the Associated Press.] The African situation has been aggravated by the French official note, made public on Tuesday last, and reading: "The news from West Africa foreshadows great difficulties at Nikki and in Borgu. The Niger Company (British) is sending officers there to incite rebellion and distribute arms to the natives. In view of this situation the French government has dispatched to the district from Senegal, as a preventive measure. Moreover, the British negotiators for a settlement of the Niger question have been in Paris for over a week, and everything points to Great Britain seeking to let matters drag. Seemingly does not intend to discuss the question, but means will undoubtedly be found to foil these tactics."

Then the situation was further aggravated by the reply of the British Colonial Office, issued the same day, declaring that there did not seem to be any reasonable fear of complications at Nikki, capital of the Borgu territory, "provided the French government behaves reasonably."

"It was added, however, at the Colonial Office that Great Britain has taken the determination to more effectively police her territories, and if the French persist in trespassing complications will naturally arise."

The appointment of Charles John Darling, C. C., Conservative member of Parliament for Deptford, to the judicial bench is severely criticized.

"Tod" Sloan, the American jockey, who is riding for the Lorillard-Beresford stable here, has been so successful lately that the papers are asking whether the American short stirrup and tucked-up action has not a decided advantage in the case of sure-footed animals. Sloan is still positive that St. Cloud II won the Cambridgeshire stakes on Wednesday at Newmarket.

George L. Watson, it is announced, has designed a racing cutter of about the size of the Bona, the property of the Duke of Abruzzi, nephew of the King of Italy, for Herr Krupp, who is now building the yacht at his works at Essen. The new boat is to meet Emperor William's Meteor in the Baltic races early during 1898.

The Employers' Liability Bill, which was adopted on Thursday by the French Chamber of Deputies, is of a drastic character. It imposes upon the employer the payment of an indemnity to workmen who are accidentally disabled if they are unable to work for four days. If workman is disabled for ten days, the employer must pay him a pension of two-thirds of his wages lost, and in the case of partial disablement the employer must pay half the wages lost. If the workman is disabled for more than two months, the employer must pay a pension of two-thirds of the wages lost, and in the case of death by accident, the employer must pay a pension to the workman's widow amounting to 30 per cent. of the wages earned. In addition to 15 per cent. for a single child, rising to 40 per cent. for four children, until they reach the age of 18. In the case of death by accident, the employer is to be paid by the workman's parents, in order to secure these payments, even in the event of employers' insolvency, the bill compels employers to insure their workmen against accident.

COMING HOME.

Senator Wolcott Abandons His Work in Europe.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

LONDON, Oct. 30.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The chairman of the United States monetary commission, Senator Edward O. Wolcott, arrived in London from Paris last evening on his way back to the United States. The Senator's visit to the French capital is classed as being mysterious, as he had written to the United States Ambassador to France, Gen. Horace Porter, saying that he would not return to Paris, but would proceed direct to America. The French government, it is understood, is not inclined to take any further steps in the matter.

SAILED FOR HOME.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 30.—The Cunard liner Campania, which sailed from this port for New York today, had on her passenger list the names of Edward O. Wolcott of Colorado, chairman of the United States monetary commission, and Mrs. Wolcott, and Charles Jackson Payne of Massachusetts, also of the monetary commission, and Mrs. Payne.

LONDON GOSSIP.

Much Ado Over the Death of the Duchess of Teck.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

LONDON, Oct. 30.—[By Atlantic Cable, Copyrighted, 1897, by the Associated Press.] The weather here and on the continent was almost as mild as in summer, but London on Thursday was visited by a regular mid-winter fog, lasting nearly twenty-four hours. Traffic was greatly delayed thereby, and there were numerous accidents.

Owing to the death of the Duchess of Teck, all the great social engagements have been cancelled at court and general mourning will be ordered. The newspapers are making a great deal of fuss over the death of the Duchess, appearing with turned rules and printing pages of obituary matter. Her Royal Highness was undoubtedly a good woman, but certainly she was not the idol of the nation which the papers make her out to be, and her great virtues were not recognized until by the marriage of her daughter to the Duke of York, she became the mother-in-law of a future Queen of England. Prior to that the Tecks had for years been in great financial difficulties, and occupied an unenviable position among royalties, both here and on the continent.

The story of the charge of the Gordon Highlanders across the frozen zone at the storming of Balaclava, which has come from India, reveals many instances of great personal heroism, and has produced an extraordinary wave of patriotism throughout Great Britain. At the music halls and theaters everything which can be possibly construed into an allusion to the bravery and dash of the Highlanders is rapturously applauded.

A painful scandal is agitating one of the minor courts of Germany closely connected with the British royal family. The elder daughter of the heir presumptive is reported to be in a delicate condition of health, because of her intimacy with a lackey of the court whom she insists upon marrying.

The Czar and Czarina yesterday concluded their visit to the Grand Duke and Duchess of Hesse at Darmstadt. While there His Russian Majesty strolled about the streets and forests, but two Russian police agents always kept him in sight.

The German postoffice is experimenting with an invention of an electric typewriter apparatus which, at a cost of $25, can be connected with a telegraph wire and a message which is typed off on the keyboard at one end is reproduced at the other end.

A curious echo of the famous telegram of Emperor William of Germany to President Kruger of the South African republic, after the capture of Dr. Jameson and his followers, was heard in the courts on Wednesday last, when a German merchant attributed his bankruptcy to decrease of business owing to the French official note, made public on Tuesday last, and reading: "The news from West Africa foreshadows great difficulties at Nikki and in Borgu. The Niger Company (British) is sending officers there to incite rebellion and distribute arms to the natives. In view of this situation the French government has dispatched to the district from Senegal, as a preventive measure. REPORTING RECORD.

VARSITY BOYS WICK.

THE INFLATED PIGSKIN PUT OVER MANY A GOAL.

Stanford Makes the Reliance Team Feel the Pangs of Defeat Again.

HARVARD IS SCORED AGAINST.

BUT VICTORY STILL PERCHES ON HER STANDARD.

Yale's Defense is a Thing of the Past, Walter Camp—President Potter's Sunday Racing Plan.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN JOSE, Oct. 30.—Today for the third time this season the Stanford varsity team made the Reliance advance feel the pangs of defeat. The score, standing 12 to 2 in favor of the collegians. The game took place in the cyclers' park gridiron, and was witnessed by about a thousand people, a large proportion of whom were students.

It was not an easy victory for Stanford, as the Reliance athletes put up a hard fight, making many brilliant plays at critical moments. Reliance did all its scoring in the first half, the varsity boys seeming content to play the defensive. Reliance took advantage of this pleasing state of affairs, and did some fast work. Carter made a touchdown and Wyckoff kicked a goal, and when the first half closed the score stood 6 to 0, Stanford being at the cipher end.

Then the collegians took the offensive, and did not take long for them to show their superiority. Murphy, Stanford's quarter-back, played in great form, and experienced no difficulty in passing through Reliance's interference. Fisher made the first touchdown, and the Reliance supply ward Murphy kicked a goal, tying the score. Daly made a great run, landing the ball safely over the line, and putting the collegians in the lead. Murphy kicked another goal, increasing the score of the varsity team to an even dozen. In the last four minutes Reliance made a desperate effort to pull the game out of the fire, but while they succeeded in keeping the Stanford eleven very busy, they failed to score.

STANFORD FRESHMEN WON.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Over 5000 people witnessed the annual freshmen game between Stanford University and the University of California. It was the most hotly-contested match which has taken place in the history of the freshmen of the two colleges being lined up against each other. Freshmen are not expected to play first-class football, and it is doubtful there was absolutely no interference worthy of the name, and fumbles were frequent, but what was lacking in science was made up in vigor. The Stanford players won the game by a score of 16 to 8, although at first everything seemed to be coming Berkeley's way.

The big fight of the first half was a touchdown before the ball had been in play ten minutes, but after that Stanford scored again and again, and Berkeley only scored once. The result was a 16 to 8 victory for Stanford. The game was a very close one, and the Stanford players were very busy, but they succeeded in keeping the Stanford eleven very busy, they failed to score.

STAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—The following Hawaiian advices, under date of the 23d inst., arrived today per steamer Peru.

Maj. S. A. Mulhauser of Cleveland, O., who is here on a mission which has been surrounded with mystery, made a futile attempt at suicide here on the 22d inst., by shooting himself in the breast with a small revolver. Despite denials from Washington, Mulhauser in an interview printed by San Francisco papers, claimed that he was coming to Hawaii on a special mission on behalf of President McKinley. While here Mulhauser denied the authenticity of the interview, but stated that his father and Mark Hanna were warm personal friends, and that he was close to McKinley. He also professed to be connected with several American papers, and said he had accomplished much work already. While a frequent caller at the American legation and the government building here, no one seems to know his business.

Senators Cannon of Utah and Pettigrew of South Dakota and Dubois of Idaho, who have been studying the operations of the gold and silver standards in China and Japan, are returning home. Mr. Cannon arrived here on the 23d inst., and on his way for a few hours to inspect Pearl Harbor and other points of interest.

ALL A HOAX.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 30.—The news about the attempted suicide of Samuel Mulhauser at Honolulu is received here with incredulity, and much more so the story told in connection with it. He is a son of the late Samuel Mulhauser, a wealthy woolen mill owner. He was in the insolvent court of this county, was not a major and was not connected with the District Attorney's office. He went to the islands for his health, and the stories about his political mission are set down by his brother as newspaper fiction, or practical joking or hallucination on his part.

SAN JOSE, Oct. 30.—Today for the third time this season the Stanford varsity team made the Reliance advance feel the pangs of defeat. The score, standing 12 to 2 in favor of the collegians. The game took place in the cyclers' park gridiron, and was witnessed by about a thousand people, a large proportion of whom were students.

It was not an easy victory for Stanford, as the Reliance athletes put up a hard fight, making many brilliant plays at critical moments. Reliance did all its scoring in the first half, the varsity boys seeming content to play the defensive. Reliance took advantage of this pleasing state of affairs, and did some fast work. Carter made a touchdown and Wyckoff kicked a goal, and when the first half closed the score stood 6 to 0, Stanford being at the cipher end.

Then the collegians took the offensive, and did not take long for them to show their superiority. Murphy, Stanford's quarter-back, played in great form, and experienced no difficulty in passing through Reliance's interference. Fisher made the first touchdown, and the Reliance supply ward Murphy kicked a goal, tying the score. Daly made a great run, landing the ball safely over the line, and putting the collegians in the lead. Murphy kicked another goal, increasing the score of the varsity team to an even dozen. In the last four minutes Reliance made a desperate effort to pull the game out of the fire, but while they succeeded in keeping the Stanford eleven very busy, they failed to score.

STANFORD FRESHMEN WON.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Over 5000 people witnessed the annual freshmen game between Stanford University and the University of California. It was the most hotly-contested match which has taken place in the history of the freshmen of the two colleges being lined up against each other. Freshmen are not expected to play first-class football, and it is doubtful there was absolutely no interference worthy of the name, and fumbles were frequent, but what was lacking in science was made up in vigor. The Stanford players won the game by a score of 16 to 8, although at first everything seemed to be coming Berkeley's way.

The big fight of the first half was a touchdown before the ball had been in play ten minutes, but after that Stanford scored again and again, and Berkeley only scored once. The result was a 16 to 8 victory for Stanford. The game was a very close one, and the Stanford players were very busy, but they succeeded in keeping the Stanford eleven very busy, they failed to score.

TOOK HER OWN LIFE.

SUICIDE OF A GIRL STUDENT AT BERKELEY.

Anna Blythe Hollywell of Redlands Took a Dose of Morphine and Died.

TRAGEDY DUE TO LOVE AFFAIR

MYSTERIOUS LETTER, TELEGRAM AND PACKAGE.

Suicide of a Portland Woman in San Francisco—Sensational Shooting Affair at Spokane—The Valley Road.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

OAKLAND, Oct. 30.—Miss Anna Blythe Hollywell, a comely member of the class of 1901, University of California, whose home is in Redlands, committed suicide in a room at No. 2165 Center street, Berkeley, at an early hour this morning by means of morphine. The young woman, for the past week, has been depressed in spirits, but studiously concealed from her associates all knowledge of what caused her depression. Last night about 9 o'clock she was heard heavily breathing in her room by Miss H. E. Durgin, sister of the proprietor of the house. Miss Durgin entered the girl's room and found Miss Hollywell unconscious. Miss Durgin saw that the girl was in a dangerous condition. Several physicians were summoned. The first to appear, Dr. Hoagland, pronounced the case one of poisoning, and this fact was substantiated by the finding of a partly used bottle of laudanum and a box containing morphine. The doctors worked on the girl until 1:30 o'clock this morning, when she died. The remains were taken to the morgue.

The suicide was undoubtedly occasioned by an affair of the heart. This is shown by a letter dated San Francisco on the 23d inst., which told of a love affair between the girl and a young man named Arthur, but the family name is not given. It shows that on the day in question Arthur died, and the writer of the letter asks the girl to bear up under her sorrow. The note shows that there must have been an estrangement between the young people, because the writer, who signs the name of Ellis R. King, says: "He wanted to ask you yourself if you would not; now he's dead. Wear the ring you refused to wear while alive as a token of forgiveness and reconciliation. He would be nothing binding in it. He freed you from all promises and asked to be remembered only as a friend."

Last Monday she received a telegram from San Francisco, which was signed by R. J. Blythe, and read as follows: "All over. Do not come now. Died yesterday." That night the girl was found unconscious in her room from a dose of morphine, but was taken out of her stupor soon after being found.

The parents of the girl have been notified by telegraph, and the father wired that he would come to Berkeley this afternoon. An inquest will be held this evening.

SHROUDED IN MYSTERY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—The suicide of Miss Anna B. Hollywell at Berkeley today is shrouded in mystery. None of the persons with whom she received letters or telegrams can be traced in this city, nor do the people with whom she resided know anything of outside acquaintances.

UNDOUBTEDLY SUICIDE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] OAKLAND, Oct. 30.—Prof. Paget of the State University, mentioned in the letter, says he knows nothing about the affair, and has not heard of any young man dying recently. He did not know Miss Hollywell. Paget has a brother, Louise Gardner, an intimate friend of the dead girl, knows nothing of any love affair. Miss Hollywell obtained morphine from Kelsey's drug store under the name of Miss LeBlanche. Morphine which was obtained by an unknown elderly woman from another drug store was also found in the girl's room. A package arrived at Berkeley postoffice today for Miss Hollywell, and which presumably contains a ring. There is no doubt that the girl committed suicide.

NO APPARENT MOTIVE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] REDLANDS, Oct. 30.—W. C. Hollywell received a telegram this morning stating that his daughter, Anna Blythe Hollywell, died at Berkeley from an overdose of medicine. She was 19 years old, and was a graduate of the Union High School of Redlands, class of '97, and was second in a contest for a prize essay on the Indian question. This was her first term at the State University. She was very studious, modest and retiring; had no gentleman friends of close acquaintance. Her father attended the Grand Lodge of Foresters in San Francisco two weeks ago. He left her in good health, comfortably located with sufficient means. A letter received from her last night said she was well. Her father thinks she may have taken an overdose of a sleeping drug. There is nothing to account for the suicide. Mr. Hollywell leaves for Berkeley tonight.

LOSERS KICKING.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Much difference of opinion prevails here concerning last night's fight. It is freely asserted that arrangements had been made with Walcott, by which he was to lose to Lavigne, although even the proponents of this theory admit that Lavigne was not a party to the alleged plot. From the same source come statements that money from Walcott's quarters was placed on Lavigne in large amounts by those on the inside. It is claimed that Walcott took all the punishment offered by Lavigne, constantly looking for an opportunity to go out, and that he made no effort to put Lavigne out. Many who had watched large fights between the white boy are said to have held tickets to win inside of thirteen rounds.

On the other hand, many sporting men maintain that the fight was a square contest and both pugilists did their best to win. Eddie Graney, referee at the fight, is emphatic in his declaration that the fight was honest and above board.

At one postroom alone $75,000 changed hands on the result, most of it having been placed on Lavigne at 10 to 6.

Shooting at Spokane.

SPOKANE (Wash.), Oct. 30.—As the result of a sensational shooting affray in front of the Cour d'Alene Theater at 4 o'clock this morning, Johnnie Bull, an old-time gambler, was shot three times, probably fatally. "Fliskey" (H. S.) Barnett, manager of the theater, had a finger shot off and his face filled with burnt powder, while his wife, better known by the stage name of Ida Clayton, received a bullet through the shoulder. The shooting is said to have been the result of a deliberate attempt on the part of Bull to assassinate Barnett, because the latter in a row two hours before had hit Bull on the head with a cane.

THE VALLEY ROAD.

Two Large Contracts to Be Let This Week.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Vice-President Watt and his associate directors in the Valley Railroad Company have practically completed arrangements to let two large contracts this week on the line from Stockton to Point Richmond. One of these contracts will be for the construction of a tunnel some 6300 feet long through the Contra Costa hills, and the cost of the work will be something like $500,000. It is the intention to have a day and night force put to work boring the tunnel. It is expected that it can be finished in 500 days. This means that the contractors will have to average twelve feet of excavation every twenty-four hours. The location of the tunnel is not very far from Point Richmond, and is just west of Franklin Cañon. The other large contract that will probably be let this week will call for the erection of a steel viaduct across one end of the Alhambra Valley in Contra Costa county. It will be some 1500 feet long, and will probably be manufactured in the East. Its location will be east of the mouth of Franklin Cañon.

RAILS BEING LAID.

[THE TIMES' SPECIAL WIRE.] SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—The rails of the San Joaquin Valley Railroad, on the Bakersfield extension, are being rapidly put in place. At Stockton rights-of-way have been given through the Boggs tract, thus saving twenty-five miles between Stockton and Point Richmond.

TIED OF LIFE.

A Portland Woman Commits Suicide in San Francisco.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—The body of a woman known as Mrs. Baldie was found in a room in a lodging-house at No. 13 Liberty street, today, under circumstances which indicate that she committed suicide by asphyxiating herself with illuminating gas. She left a note stating that she was tired of life. In the note the names of her children are stated to be Ferd Baldie, Portland; Sadie Baldie, Los Angeles; and a son, who is now in the Marine Hospital at New Orleans, today protesting against the action of Los Angeles in stopping banana shipments. The telegram says it is wholly unnecessary.

NO NEED OF FUMIGATION.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] STOCKTON, Oct. 30.—Dr. Ruggles, president of the State Board of Health, this afternoon received a telegram from the Marine Hospital at New Orleans, saying that all fruit shipped through that city received the certificate of the Marine Hospital Department, and that it did not need the fumigation to which the Los Angeles authorities are subjecting it.

Counterfeit Dollars Circulated at St. Louis That Are Worth More Than the Genuine Coin—The Government Investigating.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30.—Counterfeit silver dollars of greater weight and fineness than those turned out from Uncle Sam's mint are the latest in the coin-making art. For the last week St. Louis bank tellers have been accepting the counterfeiters in question without hesitation. It was only when they reached the St. Louis sub-treasury that their spurious character was determined. United States Treasurer Small sent one to the Director of the Mint for assay. According to Dr. Small, the coin weighs 13½ grains more than the genuine, which weighs 412½ grains. Its fineness is 94 per cent., while that of the genuine is but 90 per cent.

THE TIMES—

Weekly Circulation Statement.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES, SS. Personally appeared before me, Harry Chandler, superintendent of circulation for the Times-Mirror Company, who, being duly sworn, deposes and says that the daily bona fide editions of The Times for each day of the week ended October 30, 1897, were as follows:

Sunday, October 24, 18,700

Monday, " 23,100

Tuesday, " 23,100

Wednesday, " 23,100

Thursday, " 23,100

Friday, " 23,100

Saturday, " 18,600

Total for the week, 135,215

Daily average for the week, 19,316

(Signed) HARRY CHANDLER.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 30th day of October, 1897.

THOMAS L. CHAPIN.

Notary Public in and for the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

NOTE—The Times is a seven-day paper.

The above aggregate, viz., 135,215 copies, issued by us during the seven days of the past week, would, if apportioned on the basis of a six-day evening paper, give a daily average circulation for each week-day of 22,535 copies.

THE TIMES is the only Los Angeles paper which has regularly published sworn statements of its circulation, both gross and net, weekly, monthly and yearly during the past several years. Advertisers have the right to know the NET CIRCULATION of the medium which seeks their business, and this THE TIMES gives them correctly, from time to time; and it furthermore guarantees that the circulation of THE TIMES regularly exceeds the combined circulation of all other Los Angeles daily newspapers.

KNIVES AND ARGUMENTS.

SENSATIONAL STABBING AFFRAY IN A COURTROOM.

Dist. Atty. Raker of Modoc County Stabbed Five Times by Ex-Superior Judge Harris During the Trial of a Case.

REDDING, Oct. 30.—[Special Dispatch.] Dist. Atty. Raker and ex-Judge Harris were principals in a sensational stabbing affray in the Superior Court room at Alturas, Wednesday morning. Raker was stabbed by Harris five times before Sheriff Cummings could separate them.

A criminal action was on trial. Dist. Atty. Raker, when questioning a witness, was interrupted with an objection from Attorney Stewart, opposing counsel. The objection was sustained. The District Attorney then commenced to heap abuse on the head of ex-Judge Harris, connected with the case. The presiding judge warned the District Attorney to desist, but instead of obeying, he intimated that Harris had assaulted a woman on the street with immoral purpose, concluding by saying pointedly, "Harris laid hold of a woman on the street, and I can prove it."

Harris sprang to his feet, and pointing his finger at the District Attorney, said: "But I never seized hold of an innocent girl in my own house," alluding to the fact that Raker was lately acquitted of a charge of rape.

Raker then rushed at Harris. Sheriff Cummings sprang forward but before he could reach the combatants they had closed in a desperate fight. Raker struck at Harris, and the latter whipped out a pocketknife and slashed the District Attorney five times, the most effective blow striking Raker at the corner of the mouth, passing across his cheek and neck, and laying open the cheek to the bone. Besides a severe scalp wound and an ugly gash in the hand, Raker received two stabs in the chest. The latter wounds are superficial.

Dist. Atty. Raker is connected by marriage with Judge E. V. Spencer of Lassen county. Judge Harris is a noted character of Modoc county and years ago was Superior Judge of that county, having held the office for several terms.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—A special to the Call from Redding says that a sensational stabbing affray took place within the bar of the Modoc county courtroom at Alturas on Wednesday. Dist. Atty. Raker was stabbed with a pocketknife by ex-Judge Harris five times before Sheriff Cummings could separate them. During the progress of a trial in the Superior Court, Raker and Harris got into a wordy altercation in which there were mutual insinuations of immorality. In the midst of the great disorder which prevailed in the courtroom, Raker rushed at Harris, striking out at the latter and staggering him with a blow on the head. Harris then lunged at Raker with an open pocketknife, striking Raker five times, inflicting a wound at each thrust, cutting his mouth badly, laying open his cheek and inflicting a severe scalp wound. It was at first thought the District Attorney was fatally injured, but it is now probable that he will recover unless blood poisoning sets in. Harris, who was for many years Superior Judge of the county, is out on bail.

ENGLISH SYNDICATE'S CINCH. Control of the Revenues of Santo Domingo for a Century. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—According to a message just received at the Department of State from Consul Powell, dated at Port au Prince, October 11, an English syndicate has secured charge of the customs revenue of the republic of Santo Domingo for a period of 100 years, by making a loan of $7,500,000 to the local government.

According to the terms of the loan the syndicate takes charge of the customhouses of the republic, receives and collects all duties on imports and exports and pays over to the government a certain percentage of the revenue thus derived for the current expenses of the government. This syndicate agrees to pay all the outstanding obligations of the government and to pay the amount of the debt owed to the American syndicate that at present holds control of the customs revenues. They are also given control of the railroad running to Puerto Plata, and authority to build such other railroads as they may desire. The government conceded to them the right to make improvements as the exigency of the case may warrant. It is also stipulated that the government shall not seek to acquire another loan from any source under five years. The bonds of this syndicate are for £100 at 6 per cent. interest.

Mr. Powell adds that the English Consul left on the morning of the date of his letter on the steamer to sign the protocol of agreement on the part of the syndicate. Mr. Powell also expresses the fear that some concessions have been made on the part of President Hereaux that the English government shall secure quasi possession of Samana Bay.

ON THE DIBBLED. The Tribbys and Echos Meet Again Today—A Better Line-up.

Undaunted by the drubbing they received last Sunday, the Echos again meet the Tribbys at Fiesta Park this afternoon. The colored boys promise the Echos a worse beating than they received before, but it is a question whether they can keep their promise. The Tribbys didn't do "so much" with Baker when he took the box last Sunday, too late to save the game, however, and it is probable he will pitch even better ball today. Early will be on second, and the crowd will have some fun out of the game, no matter who wins. There will be two games, but the Tribby-Echo game will be the game of the day. The line-up is as follows:

INDIANS DISPERSING.

No More Trouble Anticipated by Colorado Game Wardens.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] DENVER (Colo.), Oct. 30.—John D. Lowell, son of State Auditor Lowell, by Geo. Pearson & Co. Auctioneers, 4300 of the encounter between the Indians and the game wardens a few days ago. He says the Indians are leaving the State, and he does not anticipate any more trouble. He says six Indians were killed in this battle, and described it as told in the dispatches. He did not hear of it, however, until two days after it occurred. He says the people in the neighborhood think the game wardens acted properly.

Dr. Foo Yuen.

DR. WONG HIM, 831 South Hope St., Los Angeles, Cal. Desires justice to you and for the benefit of others. I wish to make a statement of my case. I was afflicted with ulceration of the rectum and hemorrhage of the bowels. I was treated by two good doctors until I lost 30 pounds of flesh and became so weak from loss of blood that I was unable to attend to business. I then commenced doctoring myself and commenced to improve with the first dose of medicine, and at the end of four months I had regained my lost flesh and health, and today am well and sound. In Dr. Wong Him's honesty, integrity and ability to cure any disease that he says he can cure I have unbounded confidence and faith, and would recommend him to all needing a doctor. Yours truly, R. B. TAYLOR, President Citizens' Bank, South River-side, Cal., Sept. 9, 1897.

Attractive Values in Fall Garments

What finds favor with Hale Bros. must stand three critical tests.

THE QUALITY—It means a good deal. It's the first test every garment is put to. No matter who makes it, or whoever it comes from, if it can stand the acid, well and good. Every one is exactly as represented.

THE STYLE—Means more. These are studied minutely, unscrupulously and constantly by expert men and what is sold under Hale Bros' roofs can be relied upon as just the style.

THE PRICE—Means the most. Here's the trial that only the select are able to stand. With seven times the amount every one else buys, Hale Bros. stand ready to place such an order only when they can get seven times the advantage. Each store offers in retail this mighty power wielded in wholesale.

But a few hints here—of course you'll read every one.

WOMEN'S JACKETS, CAPES. The writer has before him a handsome, all wool, Buckle Cape, lined with changeable silk and touched off with thibet fur, and it is only marked but we will begin at the beginning. There is a plush for $3.75 and a beaver for the same. From these you can start and go just as high as you can hold your breath. Perhaps you fancy a jacket—here the range is just broad—but three hints:

AT $1.00.—A Ladies' Jacket of Beaver, in tan and black, with stitched seams and a fancy velvet collar, in the fly front effect.

AT $1.00.—Of Covert Cloth, with fancy strap-trimmed with velvet, a high slashed storm collar.

AT $1.00.—Of English Melton Cloth, bound with fancy braid, silk lined with satin throughout and cords over the shoulder and across the front.

The capes in astrakhan with marten collars and English seal and astrakhan, profusely trimmed in heads, tails and tabs are works of art and beauty and are worth every woman's time to come and inspect them—the prices do the rest.

This is a faint hint of the magnificent display we are now showing of pretty, nobby neck wear. The fur collarets are of chinchilla and English seal and astrakhan, with ruching and laces, and very pretty in fancy lining and newest French collars.

The capes in astrakhan with marten collars and English seal and astrakhan, profusely trimmed in heads, tails and tabs are works of art and beauty and are worth every woman's time to come and inspect them—the prices do the rest.

There is No House in Los Angeles,

And we except none, who can extend greater advantages to the Clothing buyer than we.

What you see of a suit of clothes is made to look at. What you don't see—the insides—is where the wear comes from. We have two lines of Suits in our store right now; the cloth in both is exactly the same thing. One line is $12 and the other is $15. The difference is in the insides—in the wear—in the shape-holding quality.

We make it a particular point to have the inside of every suit we sell just as it should be. That is the reason we are selling clothes to the same men who used to go to a tailor.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

A RAID FOR SPOILS.

A CITY HALL PLOT THAT WAS FOILED.

Scheme of Democratic Councilmen to Oust Members of the Police Board.

THEO. CANTWELL CONVICTED.

THE JURY FINDS HIM GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER.

Witnesses for the Prosecution Who Did Service for the Defense. The Jury Out About Three Hours.

The efforts of certain Democratic Councilmen to gain control of the Health Office have kept that department in a turmoil for months past. Another plot of the same conspirators which was still more far-reaching has just come to grief. They planned to oust a majority of the Police Board and to remove the Chief of Police. They have failed, however, to secure the support of Councilman Nickell, and the scheme has miscarried.

The jury in the case of Theodore Cantwell, tried for the murder of Mollie Phelan in the Richmond House last May, returned a verdict last evening of guilty of manslaughter, after having been out for over three hours. The jury went out about 4:30 and an hour later reported that there was no immediate prospect of an agreement. A majority of the jurors stood for conviction from the first.

A DEMOCRATIC PLOT.

SCHEME TO OUST THREE MEMBERS OF THE POLICE BOARD.

The Wholesale Raid Planned by the Four Freebooters of the Council—Their Unsuccessful Attacks Upon the Health Department.

The statesmen who do city politics for the Democratic party have long been greatly dissatisfied with the manner in which municipal affairs are being administered. Their specific grievances have been many and various, but the root of all their dissatisfaction is the fact that the Democratic hunger for office is still unappeased. Endless scheming and innumerable combinations have yielded only the most disappointing results.

One more plot, which it was fondly hoped would fairly turn the City Hall upside down, has just come to grief. The immediate object of the conspiracy was the Police Commission, and the scheme contemplated the summary removal of at least two members of the board and the substitution of Democrats who would be more subservient to the petty politicians who aspire to run local Democratic politics.

Ever since the present administration came into office, persistent efforts have been made to throw the control of certain city departments into Democratic hands. In these efforts Councilmen Ashman, Grider and Hutchison have taken the lead, and Blanchard has usually been next. In the case of the Police Commission, the combination of the three Democrats has been so strong that he was expected to cooperate with the gang, but he has shown an unwelcome disposition to vote as he sees fit. The utmost pressure has been brought to bear upon him, as his vote would give the conspirators a majority of the Council. The consummation of their plans would then be a matter of time. Without Nickell they are helpless, for they recognize that it is hopeless to expect that either Silver, Baker, Toll or Mathews would become a party to their schemes.

For several months the chief object of attack has been the Health Office. When the power of appointing the deputies in this department was transferred from the Mayor to the Council, it was confidently expected that victory was within easy reach, and that substantial rewards could soon be meted out to the waiting patriots who were hungry for office. These hopes were doomed to disappointment, however, for months the health department has been kept in a state of turmoil. The attacks upon it have been vicious and incessant. Even the Mayor has been made to secure the removal of Health Officer Dr. Powers, and Deputy Reed has also been marked for slaughter. But the four freebooters have met only with failure.

During Hutchison's prolonged absence in September and October the hands of the plotters were tied, for, without him, they were in a hopeless minority. Immediately upon his return the tip was quietly given out that some sensational developments might be expected. These promises, however, were unfulfilled. The fifth vote necessary to a majority was still lacking.

Finally despairing of any success in their raids upon the health department, the plotters determined to seek for some more vulnerable point of attack. Their plans were hastened by occurrences in the police board.

Last Monday morning Hutchison introduced a resolution into the Council instructing the City Attorney to report to the right of Chief Glass on the subject of the removal of the Police Board. The matter was referred to the Police Commissioners. To the consternation of the plotters, the allies, the commissioners took the view that more men are needed on the police force, and that to secure them without exceeding the appropriation, the salaries now paid must be reduced. The mere suggestion of such a plan was enough to rouse the wrath of the freebooters, and especially of Hutchison, whose effort to curry favor with the police promised to become a boomerang.

Once more the conspirators put their heads together, and a scheme was evolved for the overthrow of the Police Board. It was agreed that Commissioners Gibson and Wyman should be removed, and Frues was also marked for slaughter. A considerable sum of money was to be raised to secure the removal of the Police Board, and the removal of Chief Glass, whom Johnny Cline is supposed to be anxious to supplant.

When this precious plot was perfected, Nickell was once more approached and asked to join in the raid. To the disgust of the conspirators he refused. Threats and entreaties alike proved unavailing—Nickell declined to lend himself to the plot under any considerations, and flatly declared that he would vote as he saw fit without consulting his Democratic colleagues.

THE NEW BOND ISSUES.

Four Per Cent. Interest Recommended by Finance Committee.

The Finance Committee adopted a report yesterday, recommending to the Council that the rate of interest on the proposed new issue of fire and school bonds be fixed at 4 per cent. The ordinance was drawn last Friday by the City Attorney, and in it the rate of interest was given as 4½ per cent. This appears, however, to have been due to some misunderstanding, as the Council gave no instructions on this point to the City Attorney. Some doubt is expressed as to whether 4 per cent. bonds will be more readily sold.

The Finance Committee also adopted a recommendation that the City Engineer be requested to take up at once the matter of the Pasadena boulevard and push it to completion. This action was taken as the result of a request from Gen. Forman, that the committee recommend a special appropriation for the City Engineer's department, so that the surveys for the boulevard might be made immediately.

Toll was not willing to advocate any appropriation, but agreed to urge that the City Engineer hasten the work. Both Gen. Forman and Judge Silbert have been urging upon the Councilmen that the boulevard work should be pushed with all speed.

BRIDGE REPAIRS.

Councilmen Forced to Bow to Officer Shannon's Authority.

The Bridge Committee, consisting of Councilmen Baker, Ashman and Nickell, accompanied by Councilman Mathews, inspected the city bridges yesterday afternoon. The party drove out in a two-horse rig, and Baker, who was driving, started the team off at a brisk trot. Just as they reached the crossing of Temple and Spring street, Officer Shannon, with brandished club, sprang for the horses' heads and shouted: "Stop! Stop! I tell you! Yes, that's the way! Stop! Stop! I tell you! Yes, that's the way!" Baker was too much taken aback to enter a protest, and with visions of the City Jail floating before him, he meekly pulled the horses down to a walk. A moment later Shannon recognized Ashman, and with a sudden realization that there may be an authority even higher than a policeman's, he beat a hasty retreat.

The inspection of the bridges occupied several hours. On most of them the driveways are to be resurfaced with asphalt, and all will need some repairs. The State-street bridge was in particularly bad condition. John D. Merceau is the contractor who has been employed to make the repairs on the bridges.

THE BUILDING RECORD.

Unprecedented Number of Permits for Residences During October.

Building Superintendent Stratton says that the permits issued during October for buildings to be erected in that part of the city known in the department as district No. 4, comprising nearly all the residence portion of the city, exceed the record for any previous month in the history of the city. The largest single permit was for $35,000. There were comparatively few permits during the month for the erection of business buildings to be used for business purposes.

CITY HALL NOTES.

A petition was filed yesterday with the City Clerk, asking permission to grade, gravel, gutter and curb Gratian street, between Ninth and Eleventh streets, the work to be done by private contract.

The street department has lost a considerable part of its force. Twenty men and five teams, engaged for three months' service, were laid off yesterday, their time having expired.

The Los Angeles Railway Company will lay new tracks of heavy rails on Spring street, before the street is resurfaced. It is understood that the water company and the gas company will lay new mains before the street work is commenced. These various improvements should afford work for a large number of laboring men.

CANTWELL CONVICTED.

THE JURY SAYS HE KILLED MOLLE PHELAN.

Charge Reduced to Manslaughter by the Prosecuting Attorney—Some of the Witnesses for the Prosecution Appear for the Defense.

Theodore Cantwell was found guilty of manslaughter by the jury last evening, having been tried upon a charge of murdering Mollie Phelan, a woman who died in the Richmond house at the Richmond House in this city.

The crime for which Cantwell was convicted occurred on the morning of May 8 last. The Phelan woman was found dead in bed with bruises about her head and face. Cantwell was arrested upon suspicion. At the preliminary examination it was held that the Phelan woman met her death by falling against the post of a bedstead, and a similar defense was made in the trial just ended.

The trial was resumed for the prosecution yesterday morning by Deputy District Attorney McComas, who called two witnesses in corroboration of testimony submitted the day before. The defense then took a turn.

Attorney Phillips had promised the day before that his side of the case would be closed in an hour or two, but the examination of witnesses for the defense took up the greater part of the day. Aside from the character witnesses, nearly every person called to the stand in behalf of Cantwell had already testified for the prosecution. Conspicuous among these was Margaretta Romo, who was one of the most valuable witnesses for the prosecution on Friday, but who, yesterday, turned out to be a very valuable witness for the defense. The different stories of the two days caused Deputy District Attorney McComas to inquire as to the cause of the sudden and radical change. Margaretta explained that on the preceding day she "was bashful and not at herself," and could not relate the story as she had intended to. In his opening argument Deputy District Attorney McComas laid much stress upon the woman's testimony, charging her with having perjured herself in a most outrageous manner.

The evidence submitted in behalf of the defendant was chiefly in support of the contention that Cantwell had always borne a good reputation. A dozen or more witnesses testified that they had known Cantwell for a long time, and had never learned anything tending to impeach his good reputation.

The last witness was Cantwell, the defendant, who remained upon the stand less than five minutes. His story differed from those told by previous witnesses very materially. He said he was in his room on the night before Mollie Phelan's death. About 11 o'clock he heard a noise in the hallway, and went out to see what was the matter. Reaching the hallway, he saw his friend Gallagher, Mollie and a strange man, all standing in the hallway. He could reach them, the strange man caught the woman by the throat and forced her against the wall. Although Cantwell had been living with the Phelan woman and had named upon numerous occasions, marital relationship, his evidence did not show that he had gone to the woman's assistance while a stranger's hand was upon her throat. There was no cross-examination.

The case was submitted to the jury at 4:30 p.m., but a verdict was not reached until 8:30 last night.

KISSED AND MADE UP.

Criminal Litigation Stopped by a Marriage Ceremony.

Louisa Englehardt and Raphael Vergado "kissed and made up" yesterday, and a suit involving a charge of seduction was thereby dismissed from the criminal calendar. Vergado was to have appeared in Justice Young's court yesterday as defendant in a charge preferred by the fair Louisa, but upon his own motion the case was transferred to the District Attorney's office, and the worthy son of a Vergado rancher was changed from defendant to groom.

Miss Englehardt brought suit against Vergado in the Justice Court about a week ago. Vergado did not deny the allegations, but held that he was not yet prepared to assume the responsibility of a husband. Being that Miss Englehardt was determined, he decided to submit to the inevitable, and, accordingly, appeared before Justice Young and became the husband of the woman.

FLOTSAM AND JETSAM.

Miscellaneous Driftwood Thrown Into the Courts.

DIVORCED. Judge Shaw granted a divorce yesterday to Jacob B. Frantz from his wife, Minnie C. on the ground of desertion. The couple had been married in Kansas six years ago, and shortly after disagreed and decided to live separately. The husband proposed a reconciliation two years ago without success. The wife made no contest.

INSOLVENT. Frank Oswald, a laborer, has filed a petition in insolvency with liabilities at $340.05, and no assets.

MARRIED. Frank M. Moreno and Celestina S. Beltrami were married yesterday by Judge Van Dyke.

SOLDIERS' HOME.

Cordial Reception Given Col. Smith on His Return.

SOLDIERS' HOME, Oct. 30.—[Regular Correspondence.] Col. Smith, governor of the Soldiers' Home, was greeted upon his return from the East last Sunday with an impromptu reception by the members of the home, who gathered in force to bid him welcome. Col. Smith was accompanied on his return trip by Col. E. F. Brown, inspector-general N.H.D.V.S., whose office is in part in the Soldiers' Home, to confer with Gen. A. W. Barrett and Gov. Smith regarding the various proposals for water supply.

E. P. Clark, manager of the Pasadena and Santa Monica Electric Railway Company, accompanied Gen. Barrett and Gov. Smith on a trip around the home grounds, and with him was a view to selecting a route and terminus in the home. No decision was arrived at, but Manager Clark states that a road inside the home will, without doubt, be completed before the 1st of January. By that time the theater now in course of construction will be in readiness for a number of theater parties from Los Angeles that are already promised.

Common report has it that the question of water supply is practically settled, but the gentlemen having the matter in charge are unable, for official reasons, to disclose the precise status of the question. Gen. Barrett states that certain recommendations have been submitted to the authorities at Hartford, and that nothing further can be said about it just now. Col. Brown will remain at the home the next morning, attending to other matters, in connection with his office. Gen. Barrett will leave for Sacramento today (Saturday) and return here on the following day. His office will have been heard from. He and Col. Brown will then complete their official transactions with that supply company, to which will be awarded the contract.

Gov. Smith has decided that the use of Assembly Hall shall not hereafter be granted to show companies, except in instances where members of the home may be admitted free of charge. Chaplain Merlino, who announced changes in the Sunday-school as follows: J. T. Martin, secretary; J. S. Bradshaw, assistant secretary and librarian; J. Potts, assistant librarian.

Next Monday, All Saints' day, Rev. Father Murphy of Santa Monica will celebrate mass in Assembly Hall, at 8 o'clock a.m.

Services on Sunday at Assembly Hall as follows: Rev. J. C. Porter of Los Angeles will preach at 10 a.m.; Sunday-school at 2:30 p.m.; song service at 7 p.m.

SANTA BARBARA COUNTY.

A Small Boy Imbibes a Dose of Gasoline.

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 30.—[Regular Correspondence.] A little son of Mrs. J. D. Cordero got hold of a bottle of gasoline while his mother's back was turned and swallowed enough of it to make his case very serious. A physician and stomach pump relieved his suffering sufficiently to give hope of his ultimate recovery.

The first service held at the new Catholic cemetery, which has been laid out on the corner of the city, will be the high mass for the dead next Monday, All Saints' day, at 10 o'clock. It will take place in the beautiful chapel recently completed, there, and Father Stockman of the Parochial Church will officiate.

Miss Fannie Fithian, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fithian of this city, was married to Comte Arthur de Gabriel, son of the Marquis de Gabriel, Thursday at Paris in the Church of St. Honoré. The bride's witnesses were Gen. Horace Porter, United States Ambassador, and Chester Alan Arthur. The groom's witnesses were his elder brother, Comte Joseph de Gabriel, and the Marquis de Montigny.

The Woman's Club house was crowded yesterday afternoon by the combined attractions of fancy booths and a musical program arranged by the young ladies of the Presbyterian Church. The redwood interior was decorated with chrysanthemums, acacia and holly. A musical program had been arranged by Mrs. L. B. Waterman for piano, flute and mandolin, in which Mrs. Waterman, Miss Minnie Johnson, Miss Gertrude Owen, Miss Florence Hassinger, Miss Jessie Bell, Messrs. Henry Howard, George Ralston and George Brand participated.

Deafened by the explosion of a dynamite bomb, now out on bail pending his trial for assault to murder, hired a horse and buggy from Harrison's livery stable and returned to his home. She was apprehended at San Miguel and the property retained.

Rev. J. W. Webb of Fresno, Grand Chief Templar of the Record, has been visiting in this city during the past few days, accompanied by Mrs. Webb. He will deliver a lecture at Summerland last evening.

Dr. B. F. Pender of Sacramento, guest and relative of J. F. Dixon of this city, is expected to arrive here permanently. His family will arrive within a few days.

LONG BEACH.

High License Caucus Held to Nominate Candidates.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 30.—[Regular Correspondence.] Long Beach is very much interested in regard to incorporation, as was shown by the large attendance at the meeting in the Lighthouse Hall last Thursday evening. It was called a high-license caucus for the purpose of placing a ticket in the field to be voted on at the election to be held December 1, 1897.

Chairman E. C. Denio called the meeting to order. The regular secretary being absent, Charles Heartwell was called to fill the vacancy.

Resolutions of three each on Permanent Organization and Resolutions were appointed. The report of the first recommended that the committee on Resolutions be made permanent, and the report was adopted.

The committee on Resolutions reported as follows: Resolving that within the boundaries of the proposed city of Long Beach, in convention assembled, adopt the following declaration of principles: "Resolved that we favor every measure looking toward the material progress of Long Beach."

Resolved that we are in favor of a strict enforcement of law and order in the proposed city.

Resolved that we are in favor of a high and limited license regulating the sale of intoxicating beverages in the proposed city, and favor restrictions based upon age and in conformity with the old ordinance, No. 70.

"Resolved, that when a question arises in the Council of sufficient interest to the people, to call for petition for or against said question or act of said Council, a petition to said Council, signed by a majority of the qualified electors of the city of Long Beach, as shown by the poll list of the last municipal election, for or against said question or act of said Council, shall be mandatory, as far as the same does not conflict with this platform."

The following candidates were placed in nomination for Trustees: J. J. Hart, C. Duns, C. P. A. Johnson, W. Penn Wilson, George Stafford, G. Long, W. P. L. Stafford, C. D. Linder, E. L. Covert, John Rogers, I. F. Hart, and J. A. McComas. The first five were elected as candidates. For City Marshal: Frank McCutcheon, J. C. Baker, Mr. Baker was chosen. For City Treasurer: A. M. Goodhue, M. J. Ross and George C. Flynn. The latter was the favorite. Harry Barnard was chosen for City Clerk.

AZUSA.

Demand a Bridge—Preparing to Use Electricity Freely.

AZUSA, Oct. 30.—[Regular Correspondence.] Petitions which are being circulated for a bridge over the San Gabriel River are being very generally signed through this section. The need of this bridge is of something more than local character. Since the road from Monrovia through to Azusa has been gravely, it has become the regular highway from Los Angeles to all localities east of the river, and the need of a bridge is a very real one. The bridge is a very passable thoroughfare from Los Angeles to Pomona. At present the long wash across the river is a great drawback for the work of putting in the electrical plant to begin at an early date, and rushed to completion by next July.

There seems to be no doubt left that the valley will very generally use the electricity to be generated by the San Gabriel company. Public meetings to consider this matter have led to the appointment of a committee representing towns in this section, and a canvass is being made with a view to bringing about a general use of electricity, on a basis which will give the industrial use the service at cost.

Austin Wade & Sons have decided to make their brick block now under construction two stories high.

D. W. McDonald and family have completed a drive from Walla Walla through to Azusa, having been three months on the way.

The Los Angeles Electric Power Company has completed plans and specifications for their plant, and it is expected that bids will now be called for the work of putting in the electrical plant to begin at an early date, and rushed to completion by next July.

POMONA.

POMONA, Oct. 30.—[Regular Correspondence.] J. B. Ferris, accompanied by his wife, visited his sister, Mrs. M. M. Dewey, the past week.

Mrs. L. R. Matthews will leave Monday for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Paine, in Denver.

Mrs. Samuel Caldwell has returned from a visit with eastern relatives.

Superintendent J. W. Mills has received at the experiment station a couple of Persian sheep for breeding purposes. The large number of sheep raised in this section, and the desire to greatly increase the flocks since the Dingley Tariff Bill has made the arrival of these animals very timely.

Advised. In 1887 Gen. Beale granted to the Santa Fé Company the entire right-of-way through the Tejon Pass, with the proviso that the line should be begun within three years, and that it should be maintained as a competing road. Financial embarrassment prevented the construction of the road in the time specified, and it was extended in stages. In the meantime another survey party was sent out, and followed practically the same course, with the exception of crossing to the opposite side of the cañon and coming down into the valley back of Rose's station on the old stage line. This line 1. R. Wilbur appeared as the

An Ideal Townsite.
Owing to the location of Johannesburg—at an altitude of 3500 feet in the mountains of the Desert—it renders the place entirely free from all malarial influences, as well as affording enchanting views in all directions. The highest point reached by the thermometer this summer was 100 degs. in the shade. The exceeding dryness and bracing influences of the atmosphere make the place especially inviting to the invalid.

THE GREATER PEOPLE'S STORE.

Greater by reason of its masterful merchandising tactics, greater in its growth, wider in its scope, greater in its far-reaching and splendid bargain-giving power. Unmatched—untouched by any organization in the Golden West in its untold assortment and its sweeping volume of values. For three years the store has grown with giant strides—doubled and then trebled in size—but this only urges us on to greater effort to infuse new blood into the new store life, to strengthen every muscle, to steady every nerve for a great fall campaign. No doubt about these figures; no hesitation here; no failures; no high prices—November.

EDISON'S ATTITUDE IN THE TATER.

"I want to say," says Mr. Mallory, "and I know whereof I speak, for I have been with him night and day for several years, that 99 per cent. of the credit for the success of the tater of this establishment is due personally to Mr. Edison. I have heard it stated that Mr. Edison is an organizer, who sets the men to work. That, however, could be further from the truth than this. If this place was preserved as a monument for him, his memory would be placed upon as false pedestal. I have seen him by night and by day in all weathers, and under all conditions, and I have found him always with a concentration of purpose, and with a concentration of judgment at his back and call, which, however strained it may seem, was actually a concentration of power. Noting as being sure he had learned to respect the end. And what has been said of his personal magnetism has not been overrated, for if there is another man living for whom men would do as much, I suppose it is the power of example. We have here many men who have left their homes to come to the tater, because of Mr. Edison, and night many out of loyalty to Mr. Edison. The fact that the 'old man' does it seems to be the sufficient reason for them to do it. It is not good enough for the 'old man' is good enough for them. That, at least, is the spirit of the tater."

water, not infrequently drinks three or four glasses of it daily. In fact, so much water is required that if it is placed, vegetables and those who eat much of them, are obliged to drink a great deal of salt salt water, and often get sick on simply what is in their food. The best and most healthful way to get rid of the water, however, say that a man can greatly increase his vitality by drinking a quart of water, through getting out of condition periodically, by drinking at a minimum three pints every day, and at a maximum five pints. If a pint is drunk half an hour before going to bed, and every morning on rising, the water will be eliminated periodically. A distasteful method take it in six instead of one draught. Even more essential than water is salt. It is the basis of life. Without salt, food water is infinitely dangerous, and no man should ever be taken in drinking water and not salt. If a man's food is so that his water is bad, it should be boiled and be put away in bottles, well corked, in an ice chest.

The Suggestive Man.

"For my part," said C. B. G. Ingersoll the other day, "I regard the man who has lived on the same broad acre from his boyhood, who cultivates the fields where in youth he played, and who has discovered that salt has had a sweeter life than in the quiet of the country, out of the mad race for money, place and power."

Terribly Backward.

[Mexican Herald:] Boston is discussing a woman who died recently, when it was discovered that she had had a savings bank of her bustle! The doctress amounted to $12,000 in bank notes, she was always behind in her finances.

With the vastness of education, and the number of people who are required to make one needs—in a good, sound ground-work—the sort of learning that it fit to build—technical experience upon afterward. I am a Yale man myself, and I believe in the value of a college education, and I find myself greatly helped upward by a college education. But a good high school course will answer the purpose of a college education. I have known cases of singularly bright men who did their studying in spare moments after working hours, and who were better than exceptional. It is better to get your foundation firmly laid before you start at the education of the future. The sort of education now in vogue the poorest American boy should have no reason to go about for a degree or a diploma at all. He should have a basis of knowledge, and he should believe that an uneducated man, or even a superficially educated man, can do no more than a man who has received the profession of railroading.

The first thing a good fellow must throw cold water on the sea. For the invention and improvement of the railroad, I desire to encourage such tendencies in young railroaders to the best of my ability. Railroaders are improving year by year, and day by day. I say Hardly a day. The introduction of some of the freight transference more easily, more quickly and more cheaply contrivances come from the railroad machine shops. An invention in the machine shop of a railroad is a patent, but also money to the inventor. Railroaders are generally glad to investigate and even to invest in the full development of an invention. Therefore, I would advise every youthful railroader should be in of an inventive mind, and to be on the lookout for inspiration in this direction. Who can tell that he may not be lucky enough to light on something as tremendously important as the invention of the steam engine succeeds in improving in the same degree the improvement of locomotives.

HERE IS BUT ONE WAY to have your teeth fixed without pain, and that is to go to Dr. Schiffman. All the leading people of Los Angeles are going to him,

Dr. Schiffman pulled a large tooth for me, and I must confess he did it very nicely. I did not suffer a particle of pain, and my gums were left in splendid shape.

F. H. SCHROEDER, London Clothing Co.

ENGLEWOOD, Cal.

As regards my suffering. I am a "super-sensitive," having never been able to obtain the slightest relief by the use of anesthetics. Recently I had three teeth extracted by the Schiffman process, and although two of them were badly ulcerated, the operation was absolutely painless, with no disagreeable after-sensations, and I am pleased to add one more signature to Dr. Schiffman's long list of unsolicited testimonials.

MRS. J. C. DAVIS.

This is to certify that I have this morning had twenty-two teeth extracted by Dr. Schiffman, and suffered no pain nor after effects, and I heartily recommend his method.

DON'T YOU WANT A TABLE?

The designers of tables have outdone themselves this year. There is not an additional style or design to be thought of.

Our stock is now at its very best, with some-where between two and three hundred fancy tables to please and charm you with.

Quaint and dainty shapes, graceful curves, gleaming woods make a most entrancing display of beautiful usefulness. All the nobler woods are here, such as oak, mahogany and bird's-eye maple.

There are tea tables, parlor tables, hall tables, library tables, card tables, and there is not a weak or mean one on the floor. $1.25 and upward.

GREAT AMERICAN FOOTBALL CAMPAIGN IS ABOUT TO OPEN.

THE MEN WHO MUST WIN OR LOSE FOR THE "BIG FOUR."

WARRIORS OF THE GRIDIRON ARE

NOW BUCKLING ON THEIR ARMOR.

RARELY has there been a time in the history of intercollegiate football which promised such a dearth of moleskin armor stars and jocks. And yet it is the stars of a bygone football era who are to line up against a modern 'varsity' team, they would have a little show of victory as a 'prep' school team against last year's champions. It is through no fault of his own that the present football warrior fails to become a public idol, or to receive the adulation which was bestowed upon his predecessors. There is no doubt that he yearns for it any more than there is any doubt that he is a better player and a more finished pupil in football science. He tackles harder, runs as swiftly and is a better all-around general. The 'varsity' is not with himself, but in the style of game which he is compelled to play. With the 'close play' adopted now by all the big teams there is little opportunity for any individual brilliancy on the field. The member of a 'varsity eleven' is only a factor in a big machine. 'Team' work, interference, and even tackling, have been reduced to such a science that the only way a man can distinguish himself, or hope to reach the 'varsity,' is by making the most of the part he has to play in the machine.

This new method not only deprives the player of the opportunity to gain personal glory, but also robs the game itself of the spectacular features which make it so popular with those other than college enthusiasts. The dangers, at the same time, are increased rather than lessened; but the public, thirsting for gore, cannot tell whether a man is killed in one of the fierce, close plays, or is merely suffering from a broken leg or arm.

The modern expert looks upon the present as the highest development of scientific football, and there is no spectacle more beautiful to him than that of a half-back following his interference, or a runner bucking the line for a gain of five or ten yards; but all this is lost upon the great majority of football patrons, who cannot tell a mass play from a foul tackle.

Many of the old-school players advocate a return to the open game. They contend that the tackling in a clear field and the long runs, with the necessarily brilliant dodging, is not only as good football, but affords a more interesting play for the grand stand. The more radical ones go so far even as to declare that the modern armor, with its padded breeches, shin guards and nose guards, is all nonsense, and if the men would discard them and return to the old jerseys and light breeches, they would put up a far better game of football.

Although conditions make it well nigh impossible for the players of today to attain the personal notoriety which might have been his a few years ago, there are a dozen or more men representing the four big football colleges this year who, in the eyes of the undergraduates and the coaches, are every inch as big heroes as the McClungs, Heffelfingers, Lakes and Lees. As compared with former years, the number of veterans who will take part in the big contest next month is low. Last June's commencement seriously decimated the ranks of a number of eastern universities in which football forms an important factor of the fall term curriculum. Yale undoubtedly suffered most severely in the loss of veterans. Scarcely a man of the '96 eleven could be counted upon by Capt. Rodgers when he cast about for material for his team. The old men were not champions, to be sure, but a man who has been through one football campaign increases in usefulness, just as a soldier does, and is worth four promising recruits. Of the New Haven men who wore 'varsity caps and sweaters last year, only six returned this fall and reported for play. They were Rodgers, Chamberlin, Benjamin, Hine, Chadwick and Connor. Of this number only a fraction will be chosen for this fall's eleven. Benjamin was not a strong man last fall; his work was ragged and far below the Yale standard. If he makes the team and plays in the 'varsity games' scheduled for next month, he will have to show an amazing improvement in form, and it is the almost unanimous belief that he is not up to the work. As a guard last year Chadwick never displayed any remarkable strength or cunning. Guards at New Haven, however, are measured by a high standard. Heffelfinger and Morrison set a pace in their time that few men could stand, and Chadwick's mediocre play does not necessarily condemn him. He will have another chance this year.

He is naturally sluggish and clumsy, and until aroused or warmed up does not play in anything like 'varsity form.' With the exception of Cutten, now on the hospital list, he is so far the best man for the place that the coaches have discovered, and unless center rush material is developed between now and the middle of November he may be retained as a guard.

Of the old '96 guard Rodgers is the only one who approaches 'star' caliber, and his strength is only revealed by contrasting it with the ordinary material which surrounded him last fall. Under Srink Thorne's leadership two years ago he played a really brilliant game at tackle, and possibly he might have repeated his performance last year had he not been playing on a team that was hopelessly beaten ten minutes after the play began. At any rate, Rodgers is captain this year and is doing his utmost to lead his warriors to victory. Though short on old timber, the sons of Eli are amazingly long on new and green stock. Youngsters with football aspirations have flocked to New Haven in droves, and all of them are playing with a ferocity which only an overpowering desire to 'varsity' could inspire. The coaches—and there has seldom been a stronger array of them on a Yale field—have had difficulty in sorting out the most desirable material from the freshman supply.

Cadwalader, who received his preparation for Yale at Lawrenceville, is looked upon by the experts as the bright particular star. He is a big, powerful giant, and as guard he has displayed marvelous strength and skill. It is likely that Cadwalader, with Cutten—a Nova Scotian heavyweight who has demonstrated his ability to play center—and Chadwick, will be selected to play the three center positions. De Saulles, Sullivan and Ely are the candidates for quarterback, with the odds in favor of the last-named if he recovers in time from an injury. Back of the line Kiefer has shown more than ordinary ability, and his interference has been the prettiest seen on a Yale field this season. Corwin, McBride and Chamberlain also have been tried back of the rush line, and are the most promising ground gainers that the coaches have discovered. On the ends the wearers of the blue are lacking in weight, and some engineering must be done to fill the two important positions. Chamberlain, who played center last year, has been put at end on account of his weight.

Though trounced a year ago as he has seldom been trounced before, Yale is 'hopeful.' There were fears some time ago that the university was losing the famous Yale spirit, and desperate remedies were taken to restore it. A mass meeting was called, at which such well-known sons of Eli as Judge Henry E. Howland, Julian Curtis and George Ades spoke. Their appeals were not in vain, and veterans and youngsters alike are fighting with the old 'do or get killed' spirit that has carried the old college to victory so many times in track, field and water. Of all the eastern rivals Princeton is the wealthiest by far in the number of veterans who have returned to don again their orange and black jerseys. The number of old Tigers who played on the unconquerable team of '96 and who will play again this year, if they are not shattered to pieces in practice, almost equals the combined number of Yale and Harvard veterans. The Tigers are doubly fortunate in having for their leader a man who has twice been elected captain—an honor, by the way, which is not often accorded to even the most deserving of Tigers. 'Garry' Cochran will lead his striped hosts against Yale again this year, and he expects to repeat the signal victory which he won last fall.

If old and tried campaigners can bring about this result, Cochran should succeed. He is himself a star of the first gridiron magnitude, and he played his position at end with a dash and brilliancy which reminded the old timers of the days of 'Sport' Donnelly and Stuckney, without those players' undesirable qualities. With him the Princeton captain has Johnny Baird, who played fullback last season, and up to the time of the Yale game was looked upon as the best punter and drop kicker that the college world had seen in years. He was a disappointment in the New York game, not so much that he failed in his punts or his drop kicks as that he was equalled by Hinkey. This fall he has been brought in from fullback to quarter, and if he continues his work there, the coaches predict he will make a second King.

In Wheeler the Tigers fancy they have an able successor to Baird. He not only is a ground gainer and a line bucker, but he is a kicker as well, and both in the practice games and those with the small colleges he has dropped goals from the field with dangerous ease and frequency. He played in a part of the Yale game a season ago, and it is almost a certainty that he will play in all the championship contests this year.

It is a difficult task for a scrub man to supplant a 'varsity' veteran, even though he appears to play a stronger game. It is certain, however, that unless Bannard and Kelly, the ground gainers of '96, play in their old form and play their game all the time, they will have to give way to new men. Reiter is doing far better work back of the line now than either Kelly or Bannard, and Suter and Reed are playing excellent football. Kelly has been in poor health since the practice began, and his old partner is not playing in anything like his mid-time form. Crowdis and Armstrong, both old guards, are back in their places, as are Cochran at end and Hildebrand at tackle. This leaves only center and the other tackle and end positions to be filled. Holt is striving to fill Church's place at tackle, and his efforts have been partially rewarded, although he lacks the dash and ferocity which made Church such a factor in all the games in which he took part. The Tigers' weakest point is center. Booth is playing the position now, but his work is not all that could be desired. His passing is only fair, he fails to get into the interference, and never breaks through his opponent's line to stop a play. In comparing the team with the champions of last year it is plain that Princeton's strength will depend upon the coaching received. Man for man, the present team is stronger; and if the Tigers can play with the same vigor and team work, it is difficult to see how the result can be other than a repetition of '96.

Harvard, with an eleven which her followers thought could not be conquered, went down last fall before Pennsylvania and Princeton, and finished really last in the race. A substitution, however, of the turned to form the new team and the story and a long-barreled revenge than since the Cabot will this year. He both Princeton played a hard, steady player, a when the opportunity to whom he looks are N. Shaw, Wheeler, Donald.

A new plan Harvard this year decided that more and less fancy The men will be the game—all the bell exercise and work will give way to hard practice on the field. No substitutes for the rough and tumble of the gridiron are found effective. Somehow or other the University of Pennsylvania never seems to suffer for want of stars. Any man who wears football clothes in Philadelphia is a popular idol, whether he is on the 'varsity' or the second eleven. This year is no exception. The Quakers are as confident of winning as ever, and the coaches assert that the present eleven is incomparably better than that of '96. Capt. Mind's most promising candidates are Morice and Jackson Overfield, Outland, McCracken and Hart. Back of the line Harvard is weak. Cochran at quarter has been injured, and although he seems the only candidate available, the coaches are not at all satisfied. Dibble is by far the best halfback in Cambridge now. He runs well, dodges admirably and has endurance. Brown, Cozens and Sullivan are candidates for the other half; their chances seem about equal. [Copyright, 97, H. B. H. H. H.]

spiritual visions, nor in the Glean that had "waxed to a wintry glimmer."
Clouds and darkness
Closed upon Camelot;
Arthur had vanish'd
I knew not whither.
The King who lov'd me,
And cannot die.

Here my father united the two Arthurs, the Arthur of the Idylls and the Arthur "the man he held as half divine." He himself had fought with death, and had come out victorious to find "a stronger faith his own, and a hope for himself, for all those in sorrow, and for universal human kind, that never forsook him through the future years."

I am not so able as in old days to commune alone with Nature. . . .
Dim mystic sympathies with tree and hill still reaching far back into childhood, a friendship with the old friends of earth that continually talks to me of my own youth and half-grown things, and indeed does more for me than many an other friend, and I know not how to my delight, and I could tumble about it forever."

Moreover, he was always speculating about the mystery and the wonder of the human story "The far future," he says in a letter to Miss Sellwood, written from High Beech in Epping Forest, "is a subject which I have never yet so powerlessly is reason in that dire wrestle with temperament which most poets know, that with all these causes I am a rising criticism of the world, and I am a rising criticism to critical Tenneyson as Wordsworth was indifferent. He fancied, says his biographer, that England was an unprosperous, unattractive, and a gloomy country to live abroad in Jersey, in the south of France or in Italy. He was so far persuaded that the English people were a very inferior race, that he had it not been for the Intervention of his friends, he declared it not unlikely that after the death of Hallam he would have gone to some foreign land. And again, in reference to the completion of "The Sleeping Beauty" his son

We dwell upon this weakness of Tennyson's—a weakness which, in view of his immense powers, was certainly a source of wonder to his friends—in order to show, once for all, that without the tender care of his son he could never in his later years have done the work he did. This it was which caused the relations between Tennyson and the writer of this admirable memoir to be those of father with son. And those who have been eagerly looking forward to these volumes will not be disappointed. In writing the life of any man there are scores and scores of facts that are of great interest to only one person closely acquainted with him, either as relative or as friend, can bring into their true light; and this it is which makes documents of such value. In writing of the life of what we mean. In writing to Thompson, Spedding says of Tennyson on a certain occasion: "I could not get Alfred to Rydal Mount. He would and I could not get on." (p. 104) "Wordsworth was hospitably minded toward him." This remark would inevitably have been construed into another instance of that churlishness which is so often said to have been characteristic of him. But even if Tennyson's infirmities. But when we read the following foot-note by the biographer. He said he did not wish to intrude himself on the subject, making a "preference" of the incident as another proof of that "humility" which the son alludes to in his preface as being one of his father's characteristics. But the allusion to the incident in the poet's son written his biography the loss to literature would have been incalculable the book is full. Evidence of the poet's character and nature is sure judgment is afforded by every page—afforded as much by what is left unsaid as by what is said. The biographer has done his duty, and his friends to furnish their impressions of him. These could not fail to be interesting; it is pleasant to know what impressions Henryson made on the minds of such divers characters as the Duke of Argyll, Jowett, Tyndall, Froude, and others. But so far as a vital portrait of the man is concerned, they were not so good as the portrait which the man made in the portrait painted by him. For my own part," says the biographer, "I feel that I have done my duty, and I could truly give him as he gives himself in his own works; but this may be because, having lived my life with him, written: and it is difficult for me so far to detach myself from the home circle as to portray him for others. There is also the impossibility of fathoming a great man's mind; I never perceive the thoughts which he revealed. He himself disliked the notion of a long, formal biography, for

None can truly write his single day,
And none can write it for him upon earth.

However, he wished that, if I deemed it better, the incidents of his life should be given as shortly as might be, without the aid of any notes which should be final and full enough to preclude the chance of further and unauthentic biographies. For those who cared to know about his literary history he wrote "Critical Studies." From his boyhood he had felt the magic of Merlin—that spirit of poetry—which bade him know his power and follow throughout his work a pure and high ideal, with a simple and single devotedness to the ideal of the life of the world, and which helped him through doubts and difficulties to "endure as seeing Him who is invisible."

Great the Master,
And sweet the Magic,
When over the valley,
In early summers,
Over the mountains,
On human faces,
And all around me,
Moving to melody,
Fitted the music.

In his youth he sang of the brook flowing through his upland valley, of the "ridged wolds" that rose above his home, of the mountain glen and snowy summits of his early dreams, and of the beings, heroes and fairies, with which his childhood world was peopled. Then was heard the "croak of the raven," the harsh voice of those who were unsympathetic—

The light retreated,
The landings darkened,
The melody deadened,
The master whisper'd,
Follow the Gleam!

Still the inward voice told him not to be faint-hearted, but to follow his ideal. And by the delight in his own romantic fancy, and by the harmonies of nature, "the soft strains of the 'Catastrophic music of falling torrents,'" the inspiration of the poet was renewed. His Eclogues and English Idylls followed, when he sang the songs of the English people, the joys of country folk, which he knew through and through, Innocent maidens,
Garretted children,
Homestead and harvest,
Reaper and gleaner,

By degrees, having learnt somewhat of the real philosophy of life and of humanity from his own experience, he rose to a higher stage of development. He celebrated the glory of "human love and of human heroism" and of human thought, and began what he had already devised, his epic of King Arthur's "quest for the things that give life to the man," wherein he had intended to represent some of the great religions of the world. He had purchased this, this was to be the church of his "humanism." Yet the death of his friend, Arthur Hallam, and the consequent darkening of the whole world for him made him almost fall into this purposeless, aimless, and aimless pursuit in the "quest for the things that give life to the man."

nysonian bibliography who take a pride (and a worthy pride) in their knowledge of the master's poems. But the knowledge of all of these specialists put together is not equal to that of him who writes this book. Not only is every line at his fingers' ends, but he knows, either from his own memory or from what his father has told him, where and when and why every line was written. . . .

'Assuredly, religion was no nebulous abstraction for him. He consistently emphasized his own belief in what he called 'eternal truths; in an omnipotent, omnipresent all-loving God, who has revealed Himself through the human attribute of the highest and most sacrificing love; in the freedom of the human will; and in the immortality of the soul.' But he asserted that 'Nothing worthy proving can be proven,' and that even as to the great laws which are the basis of science. 'We have but faith, we cannot know.' He dreaded the dogmatism of sects and rash de-objection made by some people to the word 'Personality' as being 'anthropomorphic', and the perhaps 'Self-consciousness' of 'Mind', is that it is not due to them; but at the same time he insisted that, although 'man is like a thing of nought' in the boundless immensity of the universe, he must be more or less anthropomorphic, and that 'Personality', as far as our intelligence goes, is the widest definition and includes 'Mind', 'Self-consciousness', 'Consciousness', and all the attributes of the Real, the Supreme, the High and Lofly One that inhabit Eternity, whose name is Holy. "

And then the present Lord Tennynson, who is a poet, and a noble, and a general's which speaks of a week with Tennynson, when the poet, picking up a whose familiar beauty shone out

Ever since then Tennyson's hold upon the British public seemed to grow stronger and stronger up to the day of his death, when Great Britain, and, indeed, the entire English-speaking race, mourned him as a loss which we have said, as only a weakening of that hold been perceptible during the five years that have elapsed since.

The November Century contains an article on "The Growth of Great Cities," prepared by Roger S. Tracy, M. D. This is accompanied by an inserted colored map of Greater New York, specially prepared for the readers of this magazine, and giving unpublished statistics.

Interesting Experience of an Indianapolis Gentleman.

A. W. Sharper of No. 61 Prospect street, Indianapolis, Ind., writes as follows: "A motive of pure gratification prompts me to write these few lines regarding the new and valuable medicine, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I have used them for the last four years; have used various patent medicines and other remedies without any favorable result. They sometimes gave temporary relief, but the effect was short-lived. I attributed this to my sedentary habits, being a book-keeper with little physical exercise, but I am glad to state that the tablets have overcome all these troubles, and I am now a healthy, happy being, and am better in every way. The above is written not for notoriety, but is based on actual fact."

Respectfully yours, "A. W. SHARPER,
"61 Prosect St., Indianapolis, Ind."
It is safe to say that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach. They cure sour stomach, gas, loss of flesh and appetite, sleeplessness, palpitation, heartburn, constipation and headache.

SMART SHOES.

Styles That Fashionable Cobblers Are Introducing.

A New Accession of Russian Modes for Children as Well as for Older Folk.

IT is a question of shoes, any woman has it on her conscience to bend all her energies upon solving, she should, for her own sake, bear in mind that for street wear, no flimsy thing can appeal to the critical eye. Rounder, wider toes, lower and broader heels, than ever before seen, are at present masters of the situation. Thick extension soles, "cricketers' soles" they are called, are by the most dainty-footed women looked upon as the acme of fashion, but, for the reason that it heats and strains tender flesh and muscles, and is difficult to keep highly polished, calfskin is not worn as enthusiastically as formerly.

NEW SHOES AND SKIRTS.

Kangaroo hide, bright dogonia, stout American kid, and what is dignified by the title Russia leather, and sealskin, are all considered more desirable materials. Rather on a venture, the boot-makers, at the beginning of the autumn, brought out lace-trimmed shoes of which they described as rough-surfaced Russian goatskin, dyed a very rich mahogany red. Over the toes, instead of up the fronts they laid trimmings of dull black dogonia, and so soon did these find purchasers that they were followed by a dress lining inspired by the very dark-brown above, similarly trimmed, and by decorating severely plain black shoes with heavy stitching in wine brown threads.

Their worthy excuse for doing all this is that by placing stitchings and leather applications with cautious taste, a thick ankle can be helped to sturdiness of appearance, a low instep arched, or wide over the ball robbed of half its ugly extent. To such arguments no woman is impervious, just as they are turning over with a curiosity, not unmixed with interest, the high-laced, corrugated-sole, very dark-brown pigskin shoes for wear when the streets are well coated with snow and ice.

INDOOR SHOES.

Perhaps not so long as there are pretty clothes to wear and smart occasions on which to don them will women resign their high heels. Nearly all dress shoes show them now, true French heels at that. Undoubtedly the greatest novelty of this sort to be seen is the cello shoe, all of black satin, or of a vamp of patent leather and an upper of black satin. To be explicit, these new arrivals in the show of footgear are out on the pattern of any pretty high-heeled shoe, but only the postures of model extremities should presume to see them. Then only can they be tastefully worn in a carriage and drawing-room. Far more practical and just as pretty are kid high-heeled cello shoes, trimmed on the heel and button flap with patent leather. Sometimes the leather is applied in three narrow stripes across the toe, the whole of the button flap is made of it, and the heel is covered with patent leather; as a rule, good taste prevails, and the simple decorations are in greatest vogue.

"Never put a badly-shaped foot into a slipper for the evening, cling to the Oxford tie," is the advice of an elderly and experienced bootmaker, who also rejoices in great fame earned by his wares, and shows the last fashionable decision in evening shoes. It is an Oxford tie of any heel or toe preferred, and of any color of satin wished. Both on top and toe it is embroidered and beaded and lace with silk ribbons to match the satin. Now and then, by special order, he makes ties of very pale tinted satin, and sends them to a water-color artist to be decorated with wattle designs over the toes, while up the front two rows of painted porcelain buttons are fastened, and over them narrow ribbons lace and tie.

More practical and yet exceedingly fine are the half-shoes for dancing, with patent-leather vamps, tops of black silk or satin, and wide scarlet ribbon lace, tying in big bows over the instep. Young ladies with stern prejudices proudly display, as they dance, their half-shoes laced with Princeton yellow ribbons, or have their Oxford ties made of Yale blue satin and laced with ribbons to match. At a swirl of the petticoats it is easy to see they are wearing as well, Yale-blue stockings, while the admirer of Princeton satisfies her feeling in hosiery of bright black and yellow plaid.

So studiously neglected are slippers this autumn that the shoemakers have decided to let well enough alone and offer only the conventional French heel and pointed toe, chiefly in bronze black, and what is dignified by the title Russia leather, and sealskin,

THE ORNAMENTED PETTICOAT.

Above the feet of the well-shod women rustle flutes and housings of silken petticoats, if possible more elaborate than we have ever seen before. It seems almost criminal extravagance and selfishness for women to hide such glories of silk and lace and lovely design in decoration under sober cloth, or the very much plainer silk and satin top skirts. Yet, after all, the owners of these adorable under draperies are not all quite such hopeless spendthrifts.

One remarkable pretty skirt, and of which is given, was all made, even to the last stitch, by the fair hands of the wearer. Over a green silk skirt, plain and rather scant, that had served one entire season as a dress lining she put together and let fall a second and fuller drapery made all of lengths of five and one-half-inch wide taffeta ribbon in bright green and yellow plaid, interspersed with bands of rather coarse, deep yellow lace net. At the bottom of the skirt clusters of closely-placed lace were set between the ribbon bands and falling out gave all the effect of a full ruffle. Any woman might, for the sake of a little time and taste, go and do likewise, suffering no great diminishment of her income at the same time.

This arrangement of lace and ribbon is, by the way, one of the very newest capers in petticoat-making. Really exquisite petticoats, to wear with dancing dresses, are made of any color of taffeta ribbon with stripes of plaid, finely-tucked, or according to the latest modish set in—as the connection link between every ribbon length. Last year the printed taffeta skirts showed all their stripes running lengthwise, but the revival so lately of the Roman scarfs, sashes, etc., the stripes in the under petticoats run every way but up and down. Again, we have got back to pinking the edges of nearly all these petticoat ruffles, furling the flounces by laying them in narrow, close-set up-standing tucks, in place of gathers and setting them, at the waist line, on yokes that are trimmed flat.

A model skirt of this most fanciful pattern is given in the sketch of "a bedroom toilet," to demonstrate the above argument. Here the underdress is of taffeta, pure white and decorated only with narrow pinked ruffles. Above it fits a blue satin short skirt, cut in a series of long lace points, all edged with cream lace eighteen inches deep. A bit of this lace is laid over the yoke, and with this is worn a dressing sacque of blue French flannel, its pointed fullness edged with under ruffles of blue silk over which falls white lace. The sleeves hang free, but the full back is caught and held in by two sashes of silk brought around and knotted in front.

THE NEW UMBRELLA.

The autumn showers have sent the summer sun shades into packing trunks, and it is good to see the new handsome winter umbrellas unfurling. The smartest novelties are the handles, treated solidly, or on natural wood, with dull red Burnish gold, the large round sticks of green and brown bamboo, with covers of silk to match, and the umbrellas with purse attachments. The purses are neat to hold a fare only, and can be detached from the handles, that, with few exceptions, have convenient little chains or hoops so fastened as to permit of the umbrella being slung on one's arm when not in use. The hoop takes the pretty form of a slender gold or silver

BECOMING NEGLIGEE.

A very elegant material is of pink glace taffetas. It is about four yards wide, and is trimmed with four deep ruffles of black chantilly lace, edged with a narrow gold cord. The top two rows of pencil velvet, finished with a large bow on the left side, with several loops and ends, and a smaller one on the right, is a pretty finish. The dainty dress is of pinked dot taffeta, with very French affair, with no such things as buttons or hooks anywhere, except, perhaps, the tiniest little hook and loop fastener, which is used to hold the waist back and sides, with ends loosely tied and hanging in front. The sides are bias, and fit into the figure as well as the regular bodice, which is carefully boned. It is trimmed all around with black chantilly lace, three or four inches deep. A large sailor collar, trimmed with the same lace and inserted into the bodice, makes a very model is equally satisfactory in fine French pin dot flannels, in blue or pink, and even flannellette is not to be despised. The effect is just the same, and the French model can be reproduced at a trifling cost.

For a tall, slight figure a pretty house gown, suitable for other times and other occasions than those mentioned in a previous letter. These may be worn when a negligee is permissible and an afternoon siesta desirable. A very elegant one is made of pink dot taffeta, with a long, narrow skirt, sun plaited. Each and every one of these plaits is finished with a tiny edge of guipure. The waist line is clearly defined and trimly held in by violet satin ribbon, tied with a large bow and long ends hanging in front. The guipure is of course, and in consequence very expensive. Equally pretty and much more practical is the same model in cashmere. Instead of guipure, there is a small dot of taffeta, and a large naval bow and ends of lawn, has a certain air of elegant simplicity, which cheap lace cannot equal. The guipure edge is all right with this, or a narrow satin ribbon binding.

Equally pretty and much more practical is the same model in cashmere. Instead of guipure, there is a small dot of taffeta, and a large naval bow and ends of lawn, has a certain air of elegant simplicity, which cheap lace cannot equal. The guipure edge is all right with this, or a narrow satin ribbon binding.

BECOMING NEGLIGEE.

A very elegant material is of pink glace taffetas. It is about four yards wide, and is trimmed with four deep ruffles of black chantilly lace, edged with a narrow gold cord. The top two rows of pencil velvet, finished with a large bow on the left side, with several loops and ends, and a smaller one on the right, is a pretty finish. The dainty dress is of pinked dot taffeta, with very French affair, with no such things as buttons or hooks anywhere, except, perhaps, the tiniest little hook and loop fastener, which is used to hold the waist back and sides, with ends loosely tied and hanging in front. The sides are bias, and fit into the figure as well as the regular bodice, which is carefully boned. It is trimmed all around with black chantilly lace, three or four inches deep. ELECTIONEERING DODGES.

SOME OF THE VERY REMARKABLE THINGS BEING DONE THIS YEAR TO SECURE VOTES.

Electricity, Kites, Trolley Cars, Tableaux, Cinematographs, Poetry and Song All Being Used to Enhance the Novelty of the Campaign—Illuminated Aerial Banners and Other Startling Night Effects—Curious Crowds Attracted.

(From a Special Contributor to The Times.)

THE most interesting features of an American election contest are the ingenious means used to attract the voter's attention and to catch his ballot. The day has gone by when a popular candidate, a rallying cry and speakers of leather lungs and inexhaustible lung power form a sufficient equipment for a campaign. The present municipal contest for the control of the Greater New York, both on account of its importance and the multiplication of contesting parties, has brought out an unusual variety of electioneering devices.

THE CINEMATOGRAPE IN POLITICS.

Perhaps the most unique scheme of presenting municipal issues has been hit upon by the Citizens' Union. They have assumed responsibility for the present reform administration of New York, and their campaign is partly devoted to showing the advantages which it has brought to the city. To do this they have employed the cinematograph to show moving views of the reformed police on parade, the march of the "white wings," the conditions of the streets at present and before the administration of Col. Waring, and other pictures of a similar nature. The stereopticon has been brought into play for a similar purpose, both during indoor and outdoor meetings. This application of a popular attraction to campaign purposes has been very successful in attracting crowds to the meetings. The utilized the famous trolleys of that city. Each district delegation was conveyed to the meeting on a special trolley car and these cars were decorated in many fantastic ways. Most of them carried a profusion of red, white and blue lights, pictures of party candidates and a generous amount of bunting. Some had banners hung along the sides with mottoes more or less remarkable for their originality. One of these combining the names of the candidates read: "Van Wyck is pretty Low, by George, but Ben Tracy's all right!" One can find no better comparison for this long line of gaily-adorned cars than the blazoned cages of a traveling circus. The political trolley party may have existed before this season, but it is certainly new to being a novelty.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING.

Electric light has often been utilized for campaign effects. The bicycle has been utilized, not only because of its facility for transporting ward workers, but because a certain modification of it can be combined with electricity to produce a startling effect. A cycle delivery cart—the kind in which a package box is carried between two rear wheels—was fitted with storage batteries, the current from which was used to light up incandescent lamps, arranged on a stand above the box, so as to form the name of a prominent candidate. It has been proposed by some Brooklyn politicians to rig up a float which could be pulled along the tracks of trolley railways. A trolley pole would supply current enough to the cart-tall orators become during the present campaign that they have organized a spell-binders' association, and after election will hold a banquet, at which prizes will be given to those who have broken records for the size of their crowds or the number of speeches made.

ODDITIES IN CAMPAIGN LITERATURE.

A special effort has been made to produce oddities in the way of campaign literature that can be taken in at a glance. The Citizens' Union has issued thousands of placards containing short sentences setting forth their position on particular points, or attacking their opponents. In some places they have also employed glass signs, which can be illuminated and read at night. Tammany Hall has flooded the city with blotters containing the figures of increased taxation under the present administration, and such arguments as this: "Are New Yorkers fit to govern themselves? The present Republican administration does not think so. They have appointed street commissioner from Rhode Island, a fire commissioner from San Francisco, a police commissioner from Yonkers, a superintendent of buildings from Philadelphia, and high-school principals from Missouri, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts. New York for New Yorkers."

The Silver Democrats, under Henry George, have produced the only novelty in campaign buttons. This is in the form of a clock with the hands at 15 (minutes) to 1. Across its face is the candidate's name. One enthusiastic George man substituted this for a real clock, which was so arranged that every time a string was pulled it would strike sixteen short strokes and one long one.

THE CAMPAIGN POET'S WORK.

Campaign songs are always relied upon to stir up party enthusiasm. This has been in reality a singing campaign, and the Republicans especially have had everything from German quartettes to pikeninny choruses. One of their favorite ditties had a refrain running:

All sits look alike to me,
You can't get the party vote, you see;
Tracy's a much better man for me
Than you, Seth Low, ever dared to be.
Though you spend your money free,
I know we can't agree,
I don't like you no how,
All sits look alike to me.

In another they pay their respects to Tammany Hall, and sing a "Bully" song, which contains ominous the ends and a vice begins that perhaps the picture had been truer if he had avoided trenchant classifications. This is what he says: a people rich in natural gifts we never know how to turn to account—a people that has never succeeded in governing itself since the times of the Roman Caesar and the Germans Clodwig and Charlemagne. (2.) The religious malady. We are Catholics; that is to say, members of the greatest, but so far the most un-reformable church. We are, therefore, under a weighty load of atavism, which is supported by our skepticism and our hypocrisy. We are aware of what we may, either to come to an understanding with that church, or to break away from her. Atavism holds in skepticism prompts us to let things be, and hypocrisy leads us to conform. (3.) There is the political malady. We are Republicans, and, to be frank, it would be hard now to be anything else. But the party that leads us is a party of Incapables, and its head is turned by success. It plagiarizes all that is worst in the monarchies we have tossed over. It is without ideal or enthusiasm, without precise and practical notions of liberty and authority, and is satisfied to keep on marking time as it has done for seventeen years. We may look forward to a sudden tumble into anarchy and a dictatorship, and then the sequence of dictatorship and anarchy. We have Madagascar, but a shrinking population. Join to this alcoholism—a quite modern disease in France—immoral levity, the love of lies and taste for death in all its forms. Nevertheless in this vitiated national body that seems threatened with a certain death of which we see already the signs, there is a glorious soul, the soul that time after time has been as the pillar of fire to other people.

Father Hyacinthe believes in this soul, in this indestructible genius of France, in her splendid language, which all the horrors of present-day anarchy have failed to dishonor. Her religious traditions may be easily reconciled with progress, but he fears that unless the government and the great schools take a new departure that genius will migrate. The genius of Israel migrated from the holy land. It forsook Jerusalem and entered into the western nations.

Examining the Cloth.

Few people know about cloth. They pick it up, feel of it, criticize and admire it, and have little about it. A careful examination is not necessary when you deal with a firm of standing. We guarantee all the cloth we put into clothes. We guarantee a fit and insure you satisfaction. You will appreciate this.

Prof. Joseph Fandrey, 821 South Broadway.

Dear Sir:—When I visited your office on Feb. 1, 1897, I was discouraged, and did not know that I ever would be cured of my rupture. But through your treatment without operation, no injection or detention from business, I was enabled to work right along at hard work in S. P. Freight depot, and August 1, you pronounced me cured.

On August 14 I sent my father who is 60 years old to you for treatment; which goes to show that I had confidence in your treatment of rupture.

If you wish to publish this you may, that others may find out through me about your skill and success in curing rupture.

My address and my father's is 501 South East Lake Avenue.

The Greatest Life-Savers.

Of Any Age or Nation and the Most Renowned Promoters of Happiness are the English and German Expert Specialists.

The name of another happy mortal added to the list of thousands who have been rescued from the engulfing waves of the River of Death. Everybody should read the unsolicited testimonial of Mr. R. L. Bryant of Tejuanga, Cal., whose photograph is published below.

MR. W. L. BRYANT.

Mr. Bryant's Statement.

"For several years I was troubled with a dangerous complication of kidney and stomach ailments, which not only puzzled many prominent physicians who examined and vainly attempted to give me relief, but also gradually but surely grew worse and worse. In the mean time I was tormented almost to the verge of insanity by nervousness and restlessness. These disorders could not be cured, and, like my other troubles, continued to grow worse. Sleep was almost out of the question and I was irritable and despondent. The small amount of food I ate I did not enjoy while eating, and after it was swallowed it not only failed to sustain my body properly, but frequently produced the most excruciating and lingering pains in and about the regions of my stomach and bowels. My kidneys and back ached night and day.

"It was while I was in this frightful condition that I was induced by a friend, who was cured by the ENGLISH AND GERMAN EXPERT SPECIALISTS, to consult these truly great doctors. They relieved my various pains and a part of my nervousness almost immediately. After the first ten days I began to gain flesh. In three months I was almost restored, and today I am a WELL MAN in all that the words imply. My nerves are also in perfect condition.

"For this wonderful restoration to health, this unexpected saving of my life, I shall ever be grateful to the ENGLISH AND GERMAN EXPERT SPECIALISTS, and take great pleasure in recommending them to suffering people."

Any one desiring to verify the above statement may do so by writing to

CATARRH $5 per Month. CATARRH Medicines Free.

Among the diseases cured by these eminent physicians are the following:

Kidney Diseases, Bladder Diseases, Insomnia, Hysteria, Paralysis, Rickets, Scrofula, Consumption, Liver Diseases, Diseases of the Bowels, Ovarian Diseases, Sciatica, Tumors and Abnormal Growths, Deformities, Spinal Diseases, Rupture, Dysentery, all Chronic Diseases, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Dyspepsia, Eye and Ear Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Malaria, Nervous Diseases, La Grippe

EVERYBODY SHOULD BE WELL.

If there is anything more precious than good health, philosophers have failed to find it. Happiness, success, prosperity, and even life itself are dependent upon a sound physical condition. Many people are ailing who scarcely realize it. Many others are dangerously debilitated and may die at any time, unless they seek relief through the proper channels. To both classes the ENGLISH AND GERMAN EXPERT SPECIALISTS willingly extend a helping hand.

Why not see them at once and dispel the darkness and distress of disease? Penetrate the gloom of disappointment and discouragement. Take a new lease of life. These great doctors are famous for the large number of difficult cures they have made during the past 25 years. Such success and experience enable them to cope successfully with the chief of the miseries of mankind—chronic diseases.

older campaign directors are inclined to scoff at their utility as vote-gatherers. Just how effective they are in this respect may not appear even on election day, for since their first introduction, both the Republicans and Tammany Hall have taken them up, until Broadway is lined with a panorama of views calculated to appeal to the passing citizen. One of Tammany's favorite views represents the "reform" police spying for excise violations, while a thug sandbags and robs a passer-by on the street.

Pictures of the candidates always form a prominent part of the campaign decorations, and it is interesting to notice that they represent those worthy individuals as of every nationality from Scandinavian to Hottentot, according to the taste of the artist or the peculiarity of the constituency to which he wishes to appeal. In the up-town districts Gen. Roosevelt is pictured as a pleasant American gentleman, but in Little Italy his features are modeled after those of Garibaldi, while on the East Side they take on a pronounced Hebrew cast. In the district about Central Park, Seth Low is shown in cap and gown, but in Grand street he is pictured in a flannel shirt and with the general appearance of a workman.

UNIQUE KITE BANNERS.

Campaign banners are endless in number and design. One of the most unique yet devised was displayed recently by a resident of Staten Island, who is an enthusiastic kite-flyer. He sent up two strings of kites with a big banner suspended between them, bearing the legend, "Seth Low," and the candidate's picture. By attaching a couple of reflecting lanterns to his kite-strings and balancing them so that the light would fall steadily on the banner, he was able to illuminate the emblem at night. It presented a striking appearance, floating 200 feet above the ground, without any visible support, and proclaiming the kite-flyer's choice for a mile around. Another striking kite piece consisted of two large Chinese kites, one representing a tiger and the other an elephant. By deft manipulation of the kite-strings the two animals were made to fight a duel in mid-air, to the delight of a crowd of spectators on the ground. In other places, kites have been used to suspend American flags, pictures of the candidates an odorous other emblems.

TROLLEY-CAR PARADE.

When the Republicans had their first grand rally in Brooklyn they hit upon a novel and effective scheme which operate a huge searchlight on the float. Long insulated cables reaching out in front of the float would be grasped by two long lines of men. Each man would have an incandescent lamp on his brightly-polished helmet and current for these would be supplied through the cables. With the gleam of the incandescent lamps on the helmets and the rays from the searchlight flashing to and fro, the whole arrangement will present a very imposing spectacle, indeed, if it is carried out.

THE POLITICAL TABLEAU.

The Prohibition party, which makes a brave showing in the campaign, in spite of a discouraging small vote at election time, has a new stage piece this year. The tableau is an amplification of the "horrible example," who has served as the stock in trade of the temperance orator for years. The difficulty with the horrible example was that he was apt to reform under the eloquence of the orator, and then, of course, his usefulness was gone. Mistakes sometimes happen now when the figures in the tableau are not sufficiently well-instructed. Recently a Prohibitionist orator was explaining a scene entitled "The Drunkard's Home," and referred to the drunkard's wife and little ones "without a crust to eat," when that individual suddenly sat up and said: "Yer another! Bridget an' the kids is well cared for as any in the ward." Thus far the Prohibitionists seem to have had this particular form of appeal to the feelings of the voters entirely to themselves.

The present campaign has been in the nature of a boom for the cart-tall orator. Every party has employed him, and he has allowed his fancy free play in devising plans to attract the passers-by to his open-air hangar. The cart-tall orator's outfit usually consists of a truck backed up at some convenient street corner. From one end an assistant distributes campaign leaflets, while the orator holds forth from the other. Sometimes the cart is lighted only by a flaming torch, but usually there are arches of colored lights, beneath which are hung mottoes, placards and pictures. It is a difficult thing for a man to make any impression when he is talking in the open street, to a crowd that constantly changes, and the cart-tall orator requires not only a voice that can do battle with clanging bells and rattling wagons, but a ready wit with which to fling back the gibes and jokes of unfriendly listeners. So numerous have words in a chorus, the principal words in which are:

When November rolls around, round, round—
The Citizens' Union have confined their poetic efforts largely to rhymes of the nursery order. One favorite which appears frequently, is:

From top to toe,
I'm for Seth Low.

Altogether, the voter has not lacked entertainment or diversion in the present election. Doubtless the philosopher has been able to extract a lot of quiet amusement from the schemes of the campaign manager. But who shall tell what will sway a great people in its choice of public servants? It may be the magic lantern, and it may be the rhyming of "toe" and "Low."

THE ENGINEER'S WHITE HAIR.

NOT THE RESULT OF HIS WAR SCARES, BUT OF SOMETHING STILL MORE THRILLING.

He Was Returning from Gettysburg and at Night Passed the Newly-opened Grave of His Rival—His Horse Snorted with Terror and a White Thing Rose up from the Open Grave—He Trembled, but Pushed On.

[From a Special Contributor to The Times.]

A BIG black cloud that seemed to pull out at the bottom until it was the shape of a balloon spilled its flood upon the west slope of Marshall Pass. The flood rushed down a narrow gulch and tore away about fifty feet of the railroad track. The New England excursion train had to be backed down to Sargents, at the foot of the hill, and held there until the road could be repaired. There was absolutely no amusement for the excursionists save what they could make for themselves, and yet one heard no complaint. Nobody threatened to sue the company, or send in a bill for the extra feed of mountain trout that they were compelled to take because of the washout. We all knew that we should have no trouble with this party, because of their accent.

"These Yankee tourists," said the old engineer, "have more patience and less pocket money than any class of people under the sun."

A couple of gentlemen came over to the little roundhouse, walking with their hands behind them, looking at the locomotives that stood steaming in front of the house, waiting for orders. Upon the pilot of one of the engines a white-haired man in overclothes sat smoking a cigar.

"Good evening," said one of the tourists. "I suppose," said the New Englander, putting a clean tan boot upon the nose of the pilot, "that you have been in a close place some time."

"Well, I can't say that I have," said the man in overclothes. "I see that your hair is white, and yet you are younger than I am."

"Oh," said the engineer, a little embarrassed. "I got that from the smoke of the engine-driver, standing at his right hand, that had a deep dimple in the thick of the thumb."

"I went home, also, after Gettysburg," said the Yankee, and the two men looked at each other for a moment in silence.

The fireman brought a cushion from the cab, threw it upon the pilot, and the engineer motioned the men to a seat.

"Well, that was a good many years ago," said the Yankee, "and the engineer, with the hard pedal on the engine, of course each knew by the other's accent that they had fought face to face, and not side by side."

"One of your fellows did me a mean little trick down there," said the excursionist. "Well, if it comes to that, a damned Yankee poked his bayonet through my hand," said the engineer, for he had to swear when he talked.

"And seeing that you were unarmed, made you a prisoner when he might have killed you."

"Yes, I had been hit on the head with a spent piece of shell or something heavy enough to knock me out. When I came to and staggered to my feet this Yankee made a run at me, and I had to fight him."

"And how did you treat this Yankee who had spared your life?"

"Well, sah, I watched my chance, and hit him a crack under the ear, grabbed his gun when he started to get up, I said the barrel across his head and left him there, when I might have killed him."

"And here," said the excursionist, removing his traveling cap, "is the scar you gave him."

"An' here's the mark of your bayonet," said the engineer, winking at the tourist.

The two men shook hands. The tourist returned to his sleeper, but came back again presently with a half-dozed friend. The Yankee produced a well-filled cigar case, planted himself at the side of the engineer, and asked him to tell how his hair happened to be white.

"Well, sah," said the engineer, "it's that damn silly that I have never told it. But you must—you could not refuse an old comrade," said the Yankee, laughing heartily.

"After the scrap," said the Virginian, whose accent must now be imagined. "I went home to rest until my hand could heal. Our place was a long way from the railroad, and when I left the train I hired a saddle horse and started out to the plantation. It was a dark, rainy night. The result of the battle of Gettysburg had saddened me, but now the thought of seeing the folk and friends at home gave me pleasure that could not be marred, even by the sad news of the death of one of our neighbors."

"This man—this dead man—and I had been playmates and fast friends in boyhood days, but as we grew older we fell, or rather 'grew' in love with the same girl. I can't say that I blamed him for that—any man with eyes would do it, but when I went away to war and saw him standing by her side upon the station platform, it didn't seem quite as even break. He was to stay there and listen to the music of her voice, while I heard the roar of cannon. He would sit by her side in the summer twilight, while I slept out in the rain and helped make history, and the thought of it put a hardness in my heart that had softened only at the news of his death. It was pleasant, however, to reflect that I had faced the enemy—had walked 'the shadow of the shell,' and had lived to come home to her, while the poor devil, had been kicked by a mule and died."

"Tomorrow he would be planted, and I should be there to see how she took it and console her, as he had done when I answered my country's call."

"It must have been nearly midnight when I entered a lonely lane that led past the principal burying ground in that neighborhood. Looking over the high stone fence I saw a new-made grave, and doubted not that it was for my neighbor."

"The rain had ceased. The moon shone dimly behind the clouds. Suddenly my horse stopped with his head raised over into the graveyard. I spurred him and he went forward, but stopped again, raised his head and snorted."

"I listened, but heard nothing; looked, and saw nothing but the white slabs gleaming ghastly in the night. I spurred and whipped my horse, but with another whinny and snort he whirled round and headed the other way. Putting him about, I looked over the low wall and saw something white rise and fall. The scared horse trembled under me; but I urged him on to where he had stopped first. Now the white object rose again. My God! It was from the open grave—his grave, too. I made no doubt for the first time in my life my blood ran cold. I sat like one paralyzed in the saddle and saw the white thing rise and fall. Again I urged my frightened horse, but as often as I brought him up to the scratch, he whirled, snorted and dashed away down the muddy lane. I could get no round, and he would not go past the frightful object. In this way we worked forward and back, getting nearer home. At last, discouraged and disgusted, I determined to pull down the high fence on my right and pass through the field."

"As I reined my horse toward the fence, he refused to go, or to take his eyes from the grave. With a wild, unearthly cry, such as I had never heard from a horse, the poor animal sank trembling to the earth. I put him with my riding whip, brought him to his feet, and swung into the saddle again. Looking over the wall I saw this thing come right up out of the grave. There could be no mistake now, for the moon was shining almost full. I saw it put out its hands upon either side as though it were trying to lift itself up. The white arms seemed to beckon to me in the moonlight and then it sank back into the grave again."

"I was never superstitious. I had never seen up to this time, anything on earth that I would not approach. But this was too much for me. It was not of this earth—it was earthly, and I was sick at heart. Now I began to wonder how this story would sound when I should go home and tell it."

"I who had faced death upon the battlefield, day and night, for weeks and months, must say that I had seen a ghost in a graveyard. The very thought of it made me angry, and I swore then and there I would solve the mystery or die."

"Life, at least, was not a grand, sweet song to the people of the South at that time, and that thought, perhaps, helped me to be a little more reckless. Taking firm hold of what was left of my once ample stock of courage, I dismounted and made my horse fast to the high fence. Crossing the road, I looked over the wall, but nothing could be seen. I had never been afraid of this man in the flesh, then why should I fear his ghost, or whatever or whoever was doing duty at his open grave. I was now aware that I was shaking with cold.

"I took a drink. A friend had given me a bottle of brandy in the town, but I had forgotten it until now. Presently I felt warmer and waited for the ghost. I began to hope that the thing had taken water at my display of courage. I could see my horse over against the fence, resting quietly. A graveyard rabbit darted past, rolling the leaves and causing me to start."

"I took another drink. Putting my hands upon the rough stone, I leaped lightly to the other side. I felt another chill, but when my ghost remained out of sight I took courage and started for the grave. From more force of habit I took my pistol and held it in my hand as I went forward."

"Unfortunately for me a big cloud swept between me and the moon, and I paused, a hundred feet from the grave, to let it pass. Now up came the ghost again, and right there I saw I got this hair. Before now since I have never known a moment like that. I was not warm, and yet I was perspiring freely."

"I took another drink, but this time I could not taste it, but I could feel the three drinks now getting together and giving me new courage."

"Suddenly all sense of fear left me. Hi, there!" I yelled. "Come out and show yourself!" and instantly up came the ghost, but instead of frightening me it made me laugh, and I laughed loud, there in the lonely place where the echo came back from the hill across the run. I had a vague feeling that I was insane, and yet I knew that I was not, but I could not understand why I was not afraid."

"I wanted to get hold of that ghost and hit it out with the thing, and dared it to come out and make a fight. I fired my pistol to show that I was brave. There was a sound from the land of the breaking rails, the snap of a hitting strap, and I saw my poor horse galloping away."

"I was for it now, sure enough, and determined to give a good account of myself. Right there I took another drink, and to my surprise the bottle was empty. I also took a shot at the grave, for it occurred to me that for the first time that some one might be holding it with me. As the smoke of the pistol cleared away I saw the white thing lift itself to the edge of the open grave. It had wings. I could hear them and see them beating wildly against the sides of the sepulcher."

"Come out of that," I cried. "You're not a pair of wings, why don't you get up and fly?"

"There was no reply from the ghost, and it seemed to me that I must end the suspense or go mad. Rushing up to the grave I laid hold of the thing, dragged it forth, raised it high above my head and slammed it upon the earth. It gave a 'squawk.'"

"What was it?" gasped the New Englander. "It was an old white gander, sah," said the Virginian. [Copyright, 1897, by Cy Warman.]
